IMPRESSION GROWING TUNNEY WILL BE DEMPSEY'S OPPONEN

TITLE BOUT SET

Challenger Now Work-ing in Movie Serial At Hollywood

United Press HOLLYWOOD, May 29—Gene Tunney, aspirant to Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown, is piling up a rec-ord for knockouts here that would fill an ordinary pugilistic register. Gene is being starred in a movie serial, "The Fighting Marine."

He has already secred more knockouts before the cameras than appear on his official ring record.

"Every morning I put the sleeping powder over for one or two," Tunney said. "The director arranges that.

"After lunch there is generally a lull, but the sun never sets before one or two more huskies they're picked for me have taken the count."

Gene, however, declares he doesn't like the set-ups. "It's too easy," he declares. "I want Jack Dempsey."

The impression is growing fast that his official ring record. The impression is growing fast that Gene will be Dempsey's opponent this summer.

by Tex Rickard to The Associated Press. Dempsey, accompanied by a large party that had been with him in Henrsonville, N. C., arrived in Hot Springs this morning for a conference with Rickard, which was held this afternoon. "I cannot at this time state whom he will defend his title against. I will make that fact public when I appear before the New York Boxing Commission Wednesday," said Rickard.

ONE of the almost-natural results of any star European athlete's tour of the great United States in these North Pole days is his suspension by the rulers of amateurism in the land of the free soon after he has shown his wares to an admiring public. We don't have to go very far afield for examples. We have one right in our midst in the person of Charlie Gorman, although in Gorman's case, they did not even give him a chance to show off after he had rightly won his world crown. There was another notable case concerning Paavo Nurmi and his expense account but that was hushed up and the silent Finn went back with only a slight reprimand. Hugo Quist was named as goat. Then, his countryman, Clas Thunberg, of Lily Lake fame, got into a similar kind of a mess with Mr. Quist but he got out of the country in time before the suspension parchment arrived but not after he and Charlie Jewtraw had broken a well-known amateur law that bars any matching of competitors. The list might run on indefinitely and might include a lot of the old timers but the latest addition is Charley Hoff, the brilliant Norwegian pole vaulter, who sweeps the cobwebs and dust off the roof of every building he performs in with the aid of a trusty stick and some natural talent. Mr. Hoff reaches necks watching him go over the bar. In other words, what Mr. Hoff such heights that the spectators in the top row get a cramp in their does in his own special way, he does exceedingly well—the best in the world, in fact. For some reason or other, he did not show up as billed at a special meet and thereby, doubtless, caused much concern to the amateur promoters. He says he was sick. The A. A. U. declines to take that for an answer and bars him. Now, Mr. Hoff wants to go to court. Personally, we believe he will find scant satisfaction in that quarter and the best thing he can do is to get out before it gets worse. The point is that Mr. Hoff is no exception to the general rule—that prominent European amateur athletes always get into some kind of trouble every time they come to the States. The only way we know of to avoid this is not to come.

LOCAL baseball leagues need not be discouraged if attendances are not just right these days. It is certainly not the fault of the boys because they are playing good ball. Blame it on the weather, about which everyone talks but concerning which, no one does anything.

AMATEUR BOXING.

AMATEUR boxing comes prominently to the fore locally in the city tourney Monday night at the Armories and it looks like a bumper house. Give the fans quality and service and they'll pay anything and go to any limit almost to see it. The fans have always received a real run for their money at amateur boxing shows in this city and the bouts next week will prove no exception. The fans had a taste of one show recently and they liked the flavor. It was so enticing that they'll be back again Monday in bigger numbers. A professional card must go to great length in individualizing the various performers in order to whet the boxing appetite but nine out of every ten fans who attend an amateur show seldom know the name of the boy in the ring and are not very much concerned about it any way. That it is an "amateur" show seems to be sufficient to get the boys there. There is a possibility of a middleweight bout, Louis Donovan says, between Breen and Cleveland, former welter champion. Breen, by the way, is the son of Hudson Breen, well-known locally as a member of a famous skating family.
