FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

THE LAUGH OF A CHILD

By Robert G. Ingersoll

THE laugh of a child will make the holiest day more sacred still. Strike with hand of fire, whirl musician, thy harp strings with Apollo's golden hair; fill the vast cathedral aisles with symphonies sweet and dim, deft touch of the organ keys, blow bugler, blow, until the silver notes do touch and kiss the moonlit waves, and charm the lovers wandering midst the vine-clad hills; but know you sweetest strains are discords all compared with child-hood's happy laugh—the laugh that fills the eyes with light, and every heart with joy. O rippling river of laughter! thou art the blessed boundary line between the beasts and men, and every wailward wave thine doth drown some fretful fiend of care. O laughter! rose-lipped daughter of joy, make dimples enough in thy cheeks to catch and hold and glorify all the tears of grief.

Make a pint of lemon jelly, using the table-spoon of sugar and the juice of two lemons. Pour into squares mold and stand until firm. Make a boiled custard with the yolks of the eggs, sugar and milk, and add one tablespoonful of lemon juice to each cup of cold water. Remove from stove and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth, salt and vanilla extract. When cooking is set, add sliced bananas, and pour over the lemon jelly. Serve with cream.

GIVE YOUR STOMACH A NICE VACATION

Don't Do It By Starving It Either—Let a Substitute Do the Work.

The old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," applies just as well to the stomach, and the most important organs of the human system, as it does to the man himself.

If your stomach is worn out and rebels against being further taxed beyond its limit, the only sensible thing you can do is to give it a rest. Employ a substitute for a short time and see if it will not more than repay you in results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a willing and most efficient substitute. They themselves digest every bit of food in the stomach in just the same way that the stomach itself would, were it well. They contain all the essential elements that the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach contain and actually act just the same and do just the same work as the natural fluids would do, were the stomach sound. They, therefore, relieve the stomach, just as one workman relieves another, and permit it to rest and recuperate and regain its normal health and strength.

This "vacation" idea was suggested by the letter of a prominent lawyer in Chicago, Read what he says: "I was plagued in the morning stomach-aching, and undigestion of my food in brains about the condition of certain great matters that meant much to me as well as my wife. I was not the worst of days, but for months, I was working night and day, when at a very critical time my stomach went clear back on me. The undigested food brought it up, and hurried up what would have happened in a day or so. "When I ate I should be literally forced down and that was a source of misery as I had a sore stomach much of the time. My head ached, I was sluggish and began to lose my ambition to carry out my undertakings. It looked pretty gloomy for me and I confided my plight to one of my clients. He had been cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and at once went down to a drug store and brought a box up to the office.

"I had not taken a quarter of that box before I found that they would do all the work my stomach ever did; and as a rest or vacation was out of the question for me, I determined to give my stomach a vacation. I kept right on taking the tablets and breaded up and went ahead with my work with renewed vigor, ate just as much as I ever did and carried out that undertaking to a successful issue. I feel that I have Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to thank for saving me the handsome fee I ever received as well my reputation and last but not least my stomach."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box.
