DISGUSTED PATRONS.

Former Patrons, dissatisfied with the present Dominion Government for its extravagance and broken pledges, are tendering support to the Conservatives in large numbers. At the convention in in large numbers. At the convention in North Outario which nominated Angus McLeod, a well-known lumbermar, for the Commons two ex-Patrons were lever saw. White Sulphur and Eureka among the speakers. One of them, Joseph McGrath, of Rathbun, said: "I cannot tell you I am a full-fledged Conservative, I have been a Reformer all my life, but I began to be disgusted with my party. At, first I be-gan by stopping at home; next I spoilan by stopling at nome; next I spoil and to the Lagoon, and that was simple and my ballot; in the last two elections I toted for McLeod and Hoyle. Like the afternoons all boarding the cars for that place called Saltair. I determined to take it in Wellaric. with the Patrons. Their platform was good, but they would not stick to it. It was like the platform of a car—if It was like the platform of a car—if you got on it there was no standing allowed. (Laughter.) The Patrons had a habit of sitting on the fence until they man a good chauce to drop down on the side with the offices. The
