Health Officer Estimates That Eight Thousand Lives Were Lost at Galveston.

The Exodus From the Ruined City Shows No Sign of Abating.

(Associated Press.) Galveston, Sept. 17 .- Now that the waterworks are running, some of the streets lighted, many others cleared of debris, and telegraphic communication with the outside world established, the people of Galveston are anxiously look. ing forward to the re-establishing of railroad comunication. The officials in charge of the work say that they will be able to run trains into Galveston Union depot on Thursday.

State Health Officer Blunt left here yesterday for Austin, where he will report to the governor concerning the conditions in Galveston. It is expected that this statement will estimate the mortality at eight thousand souls.

Miss Clara Barton, of the Red Cross Society, arrived at Texas City last night with a hospital corps and supplies. She will reach Galveston to-day.

The steady stream of refugees from Galveston is kept up. There is not a departing train from across the bay which is not packed to platform. There will be refugees leaving for a week to No sadder sight could be imagined than the picture presented by a boat load of refugees with the ropes cast off and the craft swinging out into the bay and away from the storm-swept There is not a face that is not turned towards the ruins. Great Strike

Work Is Reported at a Complete Standstill in Wyoming Valley.

It Is Estimated That in District Number One Seventy Thousand Workers Are Idle.

(Associated Press.)

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 17 .- Pennsylvannia's great strike of anthractic miners is now officially under way. The morning found many thousands of mine workers in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys ready for the struggle with the operators, and when the scores of whistles sounded for the day not enough men and boys rallied at any one place to warrant the beginning of work. Fred. Dilsher, the member of the National Executive Board of United Mine Workers, who is in charge of district No. 1, covering these two valleys, was enthusiastic over the strike, news of which rapidly came from every direction. The headquarters were swarmed with officers and workmen in the local unions and all reported a complete tie-up. In all, not less than 70,000 mine employees of all grades are idle in district No. 1

He says the murder of the German minister opened the eyes of the Imperial court. They saw that things were now in danger of being beyond recall, and the more reckless joined Prince Tuan and Kang Yi in pressing the Empress Dowager to declare war and bring inside Pekin all Yung Lu's troops, who were armed with modern firearms, machine and field guns, as from what had been experienced before by the Boxers and Kansu men in their attacks on the legations, swords, spears and rifles were useless to destroy the foreign quarters. The most prominent and active of the Manchu party presented themselves at the palace therefore on the 20th of June, the day after the murder of the German minister, and got the Empress Dowager to issue a decree to Yung Lu, as Generalissimo of the Grand Army of the North, commanding him to bring his army into Pekin and formally attack the legations, destroy them and then, leaving Pekin for Tien Tsin, to destroy the foreigners there and so on until all were driven into the sea (!). Just as the Empress Dowager was about to give her consent to the writing of such a decree the Emperor interposed, and prostrating himself before her and in a voice broken with emotion and despair besought her to pause before sending government troops to attack the legations, thereby formally setting her seal of approval on what had gone on before against the foreign powers, plunging the whole empire into war, and putting matters beyond recall.
