EXHIBITION

was most Monday's attendance gratifying, reaching the high figure, for the first day, of 7,516. This will be more than doubled today, as the Saxon Stock Food Co. each have exbrowds from outside points will make cellent exhibits of their products, while their presence felt in goodly numbers.

The band of the 5th Battalion, Royal along on the left hand side we come Garrison regiment, which was Halifax exhibition, arrived in the city shelves and is well worth a close in-Monday morning, and gave its first spection, if only to see what good fruit concert on the grounds in front of can be grown in New Brunswick. The attendance at night was more han sufficient to make glad the hearts of the management, and to demonstrate that the residents of St. John were animated by a desire to make the exhibition the best patronized in St. John's history. For fully two hours the turnstiles were kept merrily clickng, and by 8 o'clock the main buildngs were well filled in part, while thousands wended their way to the ther buildings, chiefly, however, he two amusement halls. The City Cornet band gave an excellent concert from the newly elevated stand in the annex, and the band of the 5th Royal Regiment discoursed sweet music in the open in front of the grand stand. The vaudeville performance in amusement hall, Seignoretta Adgle and her trained lions, and other features were liberally patronized by delighted audiences, while the Meister Glee Club had a more liberal patronage than was extended in the afternoon. At 9.30 p. m. the 5th R. G. R. band gave another concert in the industrial building, to the intense pleasure of thronged floors and galleries. This band has jumped into instant favor. Owing to the noise created by the crowds that passed up and down, the stairs to the amusement halls, the lectures announced to be given during the evening in the Farmers' Pavilion by J. M. Gardhouse of Western Ontario, on "The desirable points in a Draught Horse," and on "Cattle Raising," by Duncan Ander son of Rugby, Antario, had to be postponed to a later date.

ON THE PIKE.

The Pike of the Exhibition is earning its name. In dictionaries "pike" is defined as a genus of fish, and, indeed, the Pike of the Exhibition is a veritable fishing ground. The proprietors of the side shows and the managers of the games of chance are fishing in the nickels, dimes and quarters, and a certain class of people are being caught like fish. With some of the side shows no fair minded person could find fault. They are fully worth the small admission of a dime charged. The "laughing show" might be installed as one which amply compensates the person curlous enough to pay the fee and see it. is nothing else than comical, mirthprovoking reflections of the person himself in six mirrors before which he passes. He, indeed, would be a sour faced cynic, who could remain unmoved while his face was changed into flat, negroid pattern and reversed in an instant into the lines of an air-fed spectre. Passing on, he sees himself in turn a Jew, an Irishman, and a wild man of Borneo. No one enters who does not laugh and before he again finds the open air he is fairly splitting his sides with hilariousness.

Treading to the opposite side of the Pike the visitor sees a very different picture. Selecting any one of the numberless chance (or no chance) stands he finds a number of men seriously, almost grimly, bent on making their little "pile" of money. They stake their dime or their quarter in the hope of making fifty cents or a dollar. They sometimes win: as a rule they lose. One of these stands is termed 'Kill Hooligan," a name which many of the MARITIME EXPERIMENTAL FARM fished ones will doubtlessly upon reflection consider strikingly appropriate, if not personal.

One of these stands of chance was be about smashed one time last night. It occurred in this way: The manager the cupidity of about twenty gentlemen with a little cash. The game was simple enough, being nothing more oblique surface dotted with rows of reached a board marked in different places "one box" and "one cigar." If or its value, a dollar. A quarter of aware, Empire State, Uncle Sam. a dollar was the stake. The manager two for a quarter, then three, and finally five. Each time he lost, but, like a man, promptly paid up. To the twenty participants or more in the play he must have paid over one hundred dollars, and still he seemed anxi-'ous to continue the game. The game became so intensely interesting that some of those who before were mere spectators searched their pockets for a quarter and joined the circle. It was then that the tide of fortune turned in favor of the manager and he didn't stop winning until he had fished the pockets of those who latterly joined the game.

NO FREE SEATS.

There are no free seats at the exhibition this year. If a person is tired he has got to pay ten cents for a rest, or remain tired. At the last exhibition there was nothing like this. Then the seats overlooking the bandstand in the main building were free. Now, however, these very same seats have been fenced in and valued at ten cents each Many complaints were heard yesterday afternoon and evening from elderly persons who were unable to obtain

AGRICULTURAL HALL.

The exhibits in the agricultural hall are as yet incomplete in one or two lines, but today all the entries will be on hand. The northern end of the first floor is given up entirely to dairy procheese and butter have been received.

Space has been reserved for the co petitions in cheese and butter making and these will be held as usual. Near this end are the exhibits of several cream separator concerns, and the attendants are kept busy explaining the parts and the workings of their patented machines.

POULTRY HALL.

A visit to the poultry hall reveals fine collection of birds. Mr. Camppell of Calais, an established authority in the poultry line, told the Sun re-porter that he considered the collecion fully equal in numbers to and considerably ahead in quality of the display in this line made here two Much improvement has years ago. een made in the direction of the cages all the old-fashioned home made coops having been banished from the hall never to return and in their stead have been substituted cages of a pattern uniform with the small lot that were put in at last exhibition. W. A. Jack, the superintendent of this department is not an exhibitor this year. This rob the showing of some valuable birds, but Mr. Jack feels that owing to his official connection with the poultry department it would not be in good taste for him to enter into competition with private exhibitors. So far the poultry display has been well patronized, par ticularly by ladies, to whom Mr. Jack is ever ready to explain the merits and good features of the pick of the collection. Following is a complete list of the exhibits as can be obtained at this stage. It practically covers the ground:

AMUSEMENT HALL.

While all the features selected for the entertainment of visitors to the exhibition are good there is one which stands high above them all. This is the performance of Adgie and her lions. A bright little woman in a thought by the ignorant on-looker to tastefully arranged in ornamental gaudy dress, with half a broom-stick in her hand, dances about among the three great beasts, two at least of which are to all appearances savage. The performance is a remarkable one. Adgle enters the cage and from that moment until she comes out. Geryone in the audience is fascinated. makes the lionesses jump over her foot, over her arm, and over each other. The lion, evidently rather lazy, jumps only once, but his share in the performance consists of quiet submission to petting by Adgie. He very comfortably rests his head on her shoulder and permits her to slap his face, toss his mane, and use his tail as a club. Meanwhile the other two animals are snarling or roaring, their jaws gaping and the creatures themselves looking as though ready for a spring. It is a hair-raising performance, and well worth seeing. In the same entertainment, Prof. Hampton shows his educated goose monkey looping the loop, and a pack of trained dogs. The first is amusing, the second laughable, and the last rowed: most interesting. The dogs went Royal, through some exceedingly clever tricks and there was a liveliness about the show that made it most entertaining. The Yamamoto brothers are wonders on the tight and slack wire. Their work was splendld, far better than anything of the kind ever seen here. and drew forth continued applause. The high perch work has been seen in doubtedly prove to be one of the best drawing cards in the amusement line. La Belle, the hoop roller, and musical specialist, is also good in his linand pleases the children. He also affords entertainment for the elders.

In the smaller hall the American Vitagraph and Meister Singers are giving concerts. The Vitagraph pictures are as good as ever, and nothing more complimentary than this can be said. They are drawing large crowds and are being greatly enjoyed. It would appear that visitors to the exhibition are not particularly anxious to listen to music, for only about twenty people went in to the Meister Singers' concert yesterday afternoon And yet the concert is not without its ood points. A quastet Old Folks at lome, with imitation of banjo accom-animent, was well rendered, while ne of the solos were very good. Miss Ethel Henry has undoubted ability as tame, and did not afford her an oppor tunity for the display of that ability.

INFORMATION BUREAU.

The information bureau at 72 Princ William street can look after 2,500 peo ole at one time. Information can b had here in regard to board and lodg ing in any part of the city. THE HORSE SHOW. The horse show at the exhibition Tuesday deserved all the praise it received, and some of the horses seen there are amongst the very best in Canada. Although a strong breeze sprang up during the latter part of the afternoon, the weather was just cool enough for a show of that kind. The well groomed horses, fairly sparkling in the sunlight, attached to some of the neatest rigs ever seen here, attracted a great deal of attention, and as the different winners were anartistically performed. They will un- nounced they were enthusiastically applauded.
