DORCHESTER.

[PROGRESS is for sale in Dorchester at George M. Fairweather's store.]

Auc. 21.—Our boom still booms, though it has been enjoying a small rest of late. On Wednesday evening Mrs. Chandler gave a small but very enjoyable dance at Rocklyn, in honor of Miss Howard, who has been visiting Miss Phebe Chandler here, and of course every one had had an extremely nice time, as every one always does at Rocklyn. Dancing, needless to say, was the order of the evening, and it was kept up with zest until a late hour, interspersed with refreshments about midnight. The music, consisting of a piano and Milligan's string orchestra, was more than good, and the combination of good music, good floor and good company served to make a delightful evening.

Hon. P. A. Landry spent a few days in Richibucto last week, and was there on Tuesday evening, the night of the great ball at the "Beaches." Numbers of Dorchester people were invited to the ball, but, whether on account of the two carnivals or for some other reason, I cannot hear of any that were present at it. Dorchester people seem to have lost all their "go" of late years. I am sure that five years ago a large party would have been made up to attend a ball at Richibucto, or at any of the neighboring towns, where now probably half of those invited would not take the trouble to answer their invitations. "The true, and pity 'tis' 'tis 'tis true."

Mr. A. W. Chapman is expected home this week from a visit of three weeks to Boston, where he is attending to some mining business.

are very soon to lose Mr. G. N. C. Hawkins, agent of the Merchants' bankilhere, and who is about to

Chandler, and a lot more whom I have forgotten. Music was very properly the chief stand byjor the evening, and a bagatelle table was exceedingly well patronized. Several instrumental selections were finely given by a string orchestra composed of Mrs. Hobb, Mrs. Welsh, Mrs. H. W. Palmer, Mrs. M. B. Palmer, Miss Birdle Robb and Miss Neille Palmer, and consisting of piano, piccolo, cello and four violins. Mrs. Black, of Fredericton, sang two solos in the way that she only can sing, and a number of choruses and glees were rendered by a portion of the company, accompanied by Mrs. E. B. Chandler, Light refreshments were served well on in the evening, and after devoting more time to conversation and music, the guests took their departure; delighted with the evening's entertainment.

Mr. John Black, barrister, of Fredericton, arrived in Dorchester on Saturday and is visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Hanington whom Mrs. Black has been staying with for the past fortnight.

Mr. George H. Turner, who left Dorchester in the past winter for Omaha, where he intended to settle, has returned again to his old home, where he arrived on Friday. He reports the great west a fine country, but thinks there are much worse places than Dorchester after all, and now intends to begin the practice of his profession here, and add one more to the legal corps of Dorchester. It is needless to say that he was warmly welcomed back by his many friends here.

the practice of his protession nere, and add one more to the legal corps of Dorchester. It is needless to say that he was warmly welcomed back by his many friends here.

The inmates of the penitentiary enjoyed an unusual treat on Sunday last, when Mrs. John Black took part in the service there in the afternoon—in the musical part of it, I mean. She sang some sacred solos, as well as joining in the regular music of the choir, and it was a strange sight to see many of the men wiping away from their eyes tears that not even long years of prison life had utterly dried up. On Monday morning, by special request, Mrs. Black repeated her visit to the prison, and again sang to the men assembled in the great dining hall, one of whom, with the consent of Warden Foster, rose and thanked her, on behalf of the others, in a speech of some little length, and abounding with wit and good sense.

Mr. G. N. C. Hawkins spent Sunday in Moncton. (This is probably the last time that I will have occasion to insert this item.)

Miss Julia Creamer, of Sackville, is staying in Dorchester, where she is forming a kindergarten school. We have long needed such a school, and no doubt Miss Creamer's classes will be very popular, as they certainly should be.

Mr. Will Cooke, of Moncton, was in Dorchester for a few days lately, arriving on Saturiday last, and leaving again on Wednesday. While here he was the figuest of his aunt, Mrs. J. B. Forster, at the penitentiary. His sister, Miss Mona Cooke, also reached here yesterday, and will spend a few days with Mrs. Forster before returning to Moncton. Invitations have been issued for a dance tomorrow evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Palmer, and for one tonight at Mrs. Joshua Chandler's. Judging from previous experiences both will be exceedingly pleasant, and our partygoers are busily engaged making preparations for them.

goers are busily engaged making preparations for them.

Mrs. J. B. Forster is the happy possessor of a fine specimen of the night-blooming Cereus, which is covered with buds, two of which have already expanded into full bloom. The plant was a chief attraction at Mr. and Mrs. Campbell's At Home last evening, Mrs. Forster having kindly sent it to the rectory in order that the company might witness the unfolding of the blossom. One bud began to expand quite early in the evening, and continued to do so throughout until about 12 o'clock, when it had developed into a most beautiful blossom, measuring about six inches in diameter, with a deliciously sweet perfume. The plant was surrounded by a group of admiring ladles through the entire evening.

Mr. J. W. Y. Smith returned today from another visit to St. John. He was accompaned by 1. is friend Mr. Pat Ritchie, of Ottawa, who has been spending the summer at Rothesay, and is now going to make a visit to Dorchester. Mr. Ritchie graduated this year from the Royal Military college, at Kingston.

If the latter is detected in fraudy an adequate punishment is promptly meted out to him. They don't deny a man's right to sell his own property at less than cost if he chooses, but he must not publish lying advertisements. Some of our Canadian store-keepers would doubtless find this rule a little severe; but what a wholesome effect it would have in cutting down the number of so called bargain sales!—Ez.

We would still have our "bargain sale" and shouldn't be a bit afraid of one government official.
