BODY, BUT NO HEAD.

Ghastly Find Indicative of Horrible Crime.

Lowell, Mass., June 9.—The headless and decomposed body of a young woman was found in a patch of woodland in Chelmsford this afternoon. Murder had been committed in a horrible fashion, for the head had been separated from the trunk by a series of slashes with a dull weapon. The message clothing affords no clue to the identity of the unfortunate. The body was found by Elmer Hildreth, superintendent of the town farm, and Wm. Batsner, who were searching for a stray cat. Hildreth and Batsner noted the odor of carbon and decided to locate the obnoxious body, and, in doing so, walked around a pile of wood. They saw a pair of human limbs protruding from a heap of brush and did not hesitate to investigate. They returned to the village and notified Sergeant John E. Warren and Detective Wright, the four men then setting out to make more careful examination. The body was terribly decomposed. The autopsy will be held this morning. It is believed that the body was found on the road within the past few weeks, a singular condition is added. Dr. Meigs, on viewing the body where it was found, thought it had lain there four or five weeks.
