ACHE

Ache all over. Throat sore, Eyes and Nose running, slight cough with chills; this is La Grippe.

Painkiller

taken in hot water, sweetened, before going to bed, will break it up if taken in time.

There is only one Painkiller. "PERRY DAVIS"

Children's Teeth.

These little teeth should be kept clean and filled just as carefully as permanent teeth. One of the most obvious reasons is to spare a tiny child any unnecessary pain. One sleepless night spent in the care of a suffering child with the toothache is more than enough to convince a mother. Filing the tiny cavities that a dentist finds in such teeth does not give a child pain. The bit of soft filling stops the decay, and the tooth is thus kept in its position in the jaw until thrust out by nature. A child's first tooth should not be pulled until it fairly drops at the touch. If it is taken from the jaw before the permanent tooth is well formed, the jaw shrinks. When the permanent tooth appears, being larger than its predecessor, it does not find the proper room which growth of the jaw would otherwise give, and the results are those ugly overlappings so disfiguring, so painful, and so costly to remedy. A large well curved jaw is the first preparation for handsome teeth, but the size of the jaw is not within the scope of parental care. The best that can be done is not to decrease its size by untimely removal of the teeth. The new tooth absorbs a part of material for its own use from the small roots of the first one. Any one who has looked at the entire absence of roots on a first, shell-like tooth which drops out by nature's push will recognize this, and readily understand that to have pulled the tooth too soon would have robbed the new tooth of its needed material and made it just so much less strong and healthy. Watch the child's teeth and have them regularly inspected by a competent dentist.—Harper's Bazar.

Irons should always be kept in a dry place. A convenient thing to keep under the set tubs or in some other out-of-the-way corner is a soap box, into which may be placed the flatirons, holders, stand and wax cloth, when not in use.

If you have reason to suppose that your butter is not above suspicion, you can easily test it. Smear some butter on a clean white piece of paper, roll it up and set fire to it. A pleasant smell will be given off if the butter is good; but if any animal fat has been added, your nose will acquaint you of the fact.

After Work or Exercise

POND'S
EXTRACT

Soothes tired muscles, removes soreness and stiffness and gives the body a feeling of comfort and strength.

Don't take the weak, watery witch hazel preparations represented to be "the same as" Pond's Extract, which easily sour and generally contain "wood alcohol," a deadly poison.

Mexican Street Scenes.

Leaving the low building that forms the Mexican station, we enter the street car, a car drawn by two mules. We wind in and out through the crooked streets, which are very narrow, and finally alight at the plaza or market. And what a sight meets our eyes! Women and men sitting on the stone pavements with their wares spread out before them. Here are hats almost as big around as a tub. We look around, and men everywhere are wearing them—such funny hats with their big, tall crowns! Then we look at their clothes. They are made of white cloth, and their shoes are just sandals; but there are many well-dressed ones also. Who are they? We conclude they belong to the better class. While the men wear such big hats, the women don't seem to have any hats; and sure enough, they are wearing a shawl over their shoulders. It is called a rebosa. And there come some little children that have only one little white garment; they are almost naked.

Here is a man with a pigskin over his shoulders, and another with a big bundle, all carried by a strap around the forehead and hanging down the back. Here is also a woman selling tortillas, the bread of poor people. It is made of boiled corn ground between two stones and cooked on a charcoal fire. Here comes a little boy with a great jar of water. It seems that he can scarcely move under his burden, yet very early they learn to do hard and heavy work. And here comes a crowd of boys who must work all day in the mines, go to night school until nine o'clock, and rest what they can afterwards. Here is fruit of all kinds, also vegetables and flowers.

We pass a shop, and such a vile smell comes from it! We find that this is where they sell pulque, the drink of Central Mexico. It is the juice taken from the maguey, or century plant. When it is first taken out it is very sweet, but when ready to sell it is very intoxicating. Men, women, and children drink it! They learn to use it from their earliest childhood. It is used for food. Beggars, helpless, crippled, and dirty beyond description, are all around us. Everywhere we are struck by the treeless and dusty condition. But there is the spire of a church, and we soon come to the beautiful buildings of our mission church and school.—Children's Missionary Friend.

Beirut College.

The Syrian Protestant College at Beirut is one of the prominent objects of interest to travelers in the East. It stands as a great light sending its rays far around. It has a corps of forty instructors, twenty-five of whom are Americans or Europeans. Its patronage comes from all parts of the Turkish Empire, from Egypt and Armenia. It has gained such a standing that its students belong to all races and religions. Greeks and Mohammedans, Jews and Roman Catholics, Copts, Druzes and Maronites, meet in the class rooms, listen to the same instructors, and are under the same unifying as well as enlightening influences. On Sabbath evenings five or six hundred students are gathered at evening prayers. The college is not under denominational control, but is thoroughly missionary in its spirit and methods. They who live in this Christian atmosphere carry home with them something of the new spirit, and exert an uplifting influence.

A Cure for Rheumatism.

Even the Most Stubborn Cases of this Painful Malady Can be Cured.

Rheumatism is caused by acid in the blood. That is an undisputed medical truth. Liniments, outward applications and alleged electric treatment can never cure what is rooted in the blood. A blood disease like rheumatism must be cured through the blood. That is why rheumatism always yields like magic to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—they actually make new, rich, red blood. This new blood conquers the painful poison, sweeps out the aching acid, soothes the nerves, loosens the muscles and banishes rheumatism from the system. Proof of this is found in the case of Mr. Charles Leatherdale, a popular young druggist's assistant of Tilbury, Ont. He says: "I know from personal experience that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism, because they cured me of a severe attack that for months caused me many sleepless nights and painful days. I had tried a number of other medicines, but they failed. Then I decided to give the pills a trial. Before I had finished the second box the pains began to leave me, and by the time I had taken two more boxes the pains were all gone, and I felt like a new man. That is more than six months ago and I have had no more a twinge of rheumatism since. It is my belief that a fair course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will drive the most stubborn case of rheumatism out of the system, and as a result of my own experience I cheerfully recommend them for this trouble."

The pills cure all blood and nerve troubles such as rheumatism, sciatica, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, anaemia, neuralgia, indigestion, headaches, backaches, kidney troubles, and the ailments that make the lives of so many women a source of almost constant misery. Imitations and substitutes are sometimes offered, and the buyer should see that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is printed on the wrapper around every box. If in doubt send direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2 50.

To clean brass to perfection.—Take half a lemon and some common salt, well rub over the article to be cleaned, and then wash in hot, soapy water, dry well and polish with a clean leather.
