THE LAST WORD.

The doctrine of purgatory was once disputed between the Bishop of Waterford and Father O'Leary. It is not likely that the former was convinced by the arguments of the latter, who, however, closed it very neatly by telling the bishop: "Your lordship may go farther and fare worse,"

IMPACT.

"As a matter of fact," said the defendant's attorney, trying to be facetious, "you were scared half to death, and don't know whether it was an automobile or something resembling an automobile that hit you."

"It resembled one, all right," the complaining witness made answer; 'I was forcibly struck by the resemblance."

SUFFERED TERRIBLE PAINS OF INDIGESTION.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS CURED HER.

Mrs. Wm. H. MacEwen, Mount Tryon, P.E.I., writes:—"For more than a vear I suffered with all the terrible pains of indigestion, and my life was one of the greatest misery. It did not seem to make any difference whether I ate or not, the pains were always there, accompanied by a severe bloating and belching of wind.

I did not even get relief at night, and sometimes hardly got a bit of sleep. In my misery I tried many remedies said to cure indigestion, but they did me not one particle of good, and I fully expected I would always be afflicted in this way. At this time my brother came home on a visit and urged me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and got me a few vials. By the time I had taken one vial I began to improve, and could eat with some relish. I was greatly cheered, and continued taking the pills until all traces of the trouble had disappeared, and I could once more eat all kinds of food without the slightest inconvenience. I am so tal convinced of their virtue as a family medicine, I have no hesitation in recommending them."

Price, 25 cents per vial or 5 vials for $1.00 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co,, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

DOG KILLED.

Miscellaneous.

What proceedings could I take against a neighbor for shooting my dog on his premises, without giving me any warning? The dog never left the place till the week he was shot. He was a valu-SUBSCRIBER. able watch-dog.

Ontario.

Ans.-You could bring an action against him, and, in the event of his being unable to legally justify the killing, he would probably be adjudged liable to you for the amount of the damages and costs.

MARE ABORTS.

I have a young mare coming six years old. I bred her last season, and she carried her colt up to nine months and lost it. One day I drove her about two miles, and the frost was coming out and she broke through into the mud twice with one of her fore feet. On Thursday we sawed wood in the vard in front of her stable window, with a gasoline engine. She did not seem to mind it at the time, but on Sunday morning I found the colt beside her, dead. I kept her in a box stall, with plenty of exercise, but I blame it to the engine's and saw's noise exciting her. What is your opinion about breeding again this summer, say about three months after she dropped it? Would she be apt to abort again? W. P.

Ans.—The mare may have received a strain when she broke through the frost. The engine running in the yard should not have caused her to abort, particularly if she showed no signs of being excited. Mares, however, are often extremely sensitive. No one can tell whether or not she will carry another foetus the full time. Would breed her again and take the risk. Take good care of her and she may not abort again.

DRAFT, TENSION AND POWER QUERIES.

1. Why is it, if true, that a team loses power the farther it is removed from the load? Does a long wagon draw harder than a short one, or should the weight be placed forward as much as possible?

2. Why are we advised to place a belt so that the draw will be on the under side?

3. What is considered the best way to convey power from an engine into a barn, when the engine is too far away for an ordinary belt? I should like to have the gasoline engine in a small house at least 30 feet from the barn door, to one side of approach.

4. Would it be practicable to run a small shaft under one side of barn floor and have the pullies in the top of byre below, instead of above the machines?

Ans.-1. This all depends on the line of draft, according to King. If the line of draft is perfectly parallel with the road, distance does not make any appreciable difference to the load. A long wagon, then, will not draw harder than a short one, provided the draft is parallel with the road. With an ordinary wagon, the greater weight should be placed on the hind wheels, for these reasons, says King: (1) They are larger, and will not depress the roadbed so much, and will draw easier if they do. (2) When the wheels track, the front wheels make a road by firming the ground over which the balance of the load may be more easily drawn. (3) When the axle of the front wheels is free to be turned, the slight inequalities of the roadhed tend all the time to keep the tongue vibrating, so that there is a strong tendency by this to-and-fro swinging to cause the front wheels to cut more deeply into the ground, and thus increase the draft. The reason that logs or loads seem sometimes to draw easier with a line of draft are board draw
