Guarding the Holy Land.

The bulls of several pontiffs enj in upon Catholics, especially during Lent and Advent, to give alms for the holy land. The Church always kept up a mission at Jer-usalem. For a long time this mission has been committed to the Order of St. has been committed to the Order of St. Francis. Their work is to give the consolations of religion to the few Catholics to be found in Palestine, but more especially to guard holy places against spoliation and outrage; to keep up the true worship in a worthy manner on the spot where it was originated, and to give hospitality to pilgrims from all parts of the world, and so making their tour both more pleasant and profitable to them. It is said that the maintenance of this mission in former years cost 10,000 lives, about half that number of friars having tallen victims to number of friars having tallen victims to the plague and about half having suffered martyrdom in defending the sacred shrines intrusted to their care. Those who give to this mission to-day are promised, not only the consolation of having in a sense a share in the worship of venerable sanctuaries, as the annunciation at Nazar-eth, the holy sepulchre at Jerusalem, and many others connected with the mystery of redemption, but also a share in the benefits of the good work of the Franciscan friars and of many indulgences attached to the venerable sanctuaries of Palestine.
