Injured in a Snowslide.

YMIR, Dec. 10.-[Special.]-An accident happened at the Porto Rico mine on Tuesday when Jack Chestnut, who has a contract for tunneling, met with a considerable injury. Mr. Chestnut was leaving the tunnel after firing off his blasts when a snowslide, probably loosened by the concussion, struck him and carried him into an open ore chute, and but for the fact that the partitions of the ore box prevented the snow from packing, he would undoubtedly have been smothered. As it is he has sustained a severe facial injury. This has caused a temporarily shut down of the
