CUBAN LAND TITLES

Curious Partial Title Known as "Pesos de Posession."

It is said that some of the Cuban lands which are being offered for sale in this country by Americans cannot show a proper title. A correspondent of the United States investor cites one case where, as he says, "The only title they have is what is known as pesos de possession, which in their case would not give them a good title for twenty years."

"If the owners are widely scattered and have not lived on the property it requires twenty years after the legal division of the property has been effected before a title of dominion can be obtained. This is done to protect any heirs who may not be in the jurisdiction of the court at the time of the judicial division."

"When these estates are divided there is a lot of red tape. Application is made to the court by the holders of the pesos and the court appoints a surveyor to run the lines of the area, which survey must be submitted to those who claim the area. After this is made satisfactorily then the division is made between the holders of the pesos of that area and this in turn has to be approved by all. Then after this the court summons the parties of the legal representatives and makes a deed direct to each party with a map attached showing his or her particular piece, which is then put on record and is the first record they severally have."

"If any heirs are missing or the proof of any in any manner doubtful title of possession is given which is contestable at any time within twenty years. It is not so intricate as one may believe but red tape and a good title can be obtained in selecting an area which does not show any complications. Once a good title is obtained it is ironclad."

Pointing is a Trick Game. It is necessary in this game for the player acting the part of guesser to have a confederate; he is then able to leave the room, and on his return to mention that person was pointed at during his absence. It is done in this way: It is agreed between the guesser and his confederate that whoever speaks last before the door is closed upon the guesser shall be the person who is to be pointed at. It is very seldom that anyone discovers this trick.

FALLS FROM GREAT HEIGHTS.

Some Instances in Which They Have Not Proved Fatal.

Falls from great heights, not necessarily fatal in their results, are becoming so frequent in these days of aeroplaneing that it may prove of interest to refer back to the classics of the subject, which, however, are not as ample as might be expected. Writing in 1841 of a fall from an immense altitude which did not result in death, a French observer, M. Manzi, declares that he had searched in vain the annals of science for a similar case. We can well believe it. "A victim of an accident was a leprosy who had been engaged in putting up decorations on the occasion of the belated obsequies of Napoleon the Great in the lofty dome of the Church of the Invalides in Paris."

When busy moving a ladder on the top of a high scaffolding he overbalanced himself and in obedience to some obscure instinct jumped clear of the ladder and the platform, crying to his fellow workmen, as only a Frenchman would, "Tiens, ma vie! va! va!" With these cheerful words on his lips he fell eighty-two feet, bounding in one place off the roof of a fine dome, which caused him to describe a second parabola in the air, and landing finally feet first on the slate roof of a small society.

Crashing through the slates, he landed astride a rafter, where he was found still alive, surprised, but coherent, for he was able to give his name and address when asked for them. He had no recollection of this and became unconscious when he fell to bed shortly afterward under the care of the great surgeon. The injury lasted a very short time, however, and he made an extraordinarily rapid recovery, having sustained no apparent injuries either external or internal. At the end of a month Pasquier found him quite well.

Manzi also records the case of his friend from a great height when a child and describes the feeling of blindness that came upon him due to the rapidity of his descent, also the anguish of recovering his breath after a fall of however, describe their sensations during a tremendous fall as being far from disagreeable. Thus some nine years ago Prof Helm, the geologist of Zurich, described "The blood of thought" that traversed his mind during a typical alpine fall, which began on an inclined plane. He saw beautiful and various visions of his past life as he fell and reflected rationally on his death or the chance of escape. He felt no pain on striking the ground, but he heard a thud, which was the impact of his own head on a rock.

Another Alpine faller thought about his insurance and his family. "Of the feeling of my breath, of which people talk, there was no suggestion, and only the heavy fall on the snow covered ground caused me to lose suddenly and rapturously all consciousness." Both these Alpinists insisted on the absence of anxiety from their minds when falling, while one certainly describes sensations similar to those felt by the drowning. Among classic legends it may be noted that of a steppeler who in his fall from the top of the Church of St. George in Bolton-street to the ground, the whole distance traversed being some 120 feet. The man's skull struck a sheet lead upon the earth and left its impact upon it, but though his fall was quite unbroken as in the previous cases by scaffolding, rocks and so forth, the man was only slightly injured and resumed work in a few days. Recently a man with his boots on fell from the top of a cliff at Dover, the height of which was afterwards found to be 400 feet.

He was picked up floating insensible for some five feet of water, but his boots were off, which proves that he must have retained sufficient consciousness on leaving the water to enable him to draw his boots from his feet. Both these cases, as well as others, we wish we could be sure of the truth of the story told of an courier who fell from a fourth floor window and was, as he passed, struck by a man who remarked with great rapidity and clearness, "Ca va bien jusqu'à present pour moi." From the Lancet.

"CANDY-COATED LEMONS NOT SUFFRAGE," SAYS SHE.

"American women have been fed for years on candy-coated lemons and they've sucked away at them with the enthusiasm of gurgling infants," says Mrs. Sofia Loebinger, fiery editor of the American Suffragette. But she doesn't stop there. Listen: "Pacifier—things to keep babies quiet—what our government has handed the women, whom it considers unfit to help make its laws. "What is the average suffrage meeting but a tea party? The 'conservative' suffragists enjoy and plead and persuade when they should demand. We can only prove we mean business by militant methods. "The battle is practically won in England, and why? Simply because it's been a battle, not a tea party. Unwontedly? Why, winning itself is unwomanly. The womanly woman always loses, whether the game is love or cards, or else she cheats. Bernard Shaw equipped the womanly woman to a parrot in a gilded cage. Our suffragists should do a little more squawking and beating about the cage."

AMERICA'S WIRELESS STATIONS.

The Bureau of Steam Engineering of the United States Navy has just issued a directory of all wireless telegraph stations of commercial use, as well as of those of the United States Navy. Stations belonging to the navies of foreign governments are not included. The total number of stations listed is 129, about 90 of which are shore stations. On the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts there are 88, on the Pacific coast 41, on the Great Lakes 8 and in Alaska 16, in addition to which there are three in the interior of the United States. There are ten naval vessels equipped with wireless apparatus and 521 merchant vessels.

HUMORS IN THE BLOOD COMPLETELY REMOVED

Good News for Those Who Suffer From Pimples, Blisters, Pale-ness and Waxy Complexion.

Look into a mirror—one glance is sufficient to tell whether or not you are suffering from blood humors. Those dull eyes, pallid cheeks, pimples and eruptions tell the whole story. A clear healthy skin is only possible when the circulation is pure and active; and therefore, to get well, the vital fluid must be enriched, must be cleansed and made free of all pollutions and disease-breeding germs. Authorities say that skin and blood diseases are best treated by DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS OF MANDRAKE AND BUTTERNUT, which aid the stomach to digest its food, improve the quality of the blood, give comfort to disease-tortured skins.

PROOF OF CURE.

"I want to publicly state that I have been restored to sound vigorous health by Dr. Hamilton's Pills," writes Mr. P. P. Jenkins, from Aurora. "My blood was over-ridden by humors which came to the surface in the form of running pimples and ugly blotches on my face. Dr. Hamilton's Pills, however, gave me sound digestion, more strength and enabled me to eat, sleep and enjoy life again."

To get rest, healthful blood—to have a clear, rosy complexion—to be free from stomach misery and all skin troubles, purify your system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut; 25c per box, and remember, no substitute will cure. Prepared by The Catarhazone Co., Kingston, Ont.

PULPIT VAUDEVILLE.

Speaking before one of the local ministerial associations yesterday a clergyman declared that the modern church should not try to compete with the nickelodeon, the theatre and the lecture bureau. He insisted that the church is not a place of entertainment, but on religious instruction, where men and women should reason, and be spiritually lifted rather than amused. These are truisms indeed, or were a few years ago, but they have lost much of their force of late. Too many pastors in their desire to fill empty pews adopt the methods of vaudeville. It is not clear, whether it is the church or elsewhere, that it is always to attend until the novelty wears off or some rival institution offers more powerful attractions.

A FAIRLY WET WORLD.

The Pacific Ocean covers 68,000,000 miles, the Atlantic 30,000,000 and the Indian, Arctic and Antarctic 42,000,000. To stow away the contents of the Pacific it would be necessary of the Pacific mile long, one mile wide and one mile deep every day for 440 years. Put in figures the Pacific holds in weight 948,000,000,000,000,000 tons. The Atlantic averages a depth of not quite three miles, its water weights 325,000,000,000,000,000 tons, and a tank to contain it would have each of its sides 430 miles long. The figures of the other oceans are in the same startling proportions. It would take all the water in the world 2,000,000 years to flow over Niagara.—Fair News.

A religion that is good enough for the week day will do for Sunday. The heart is not a fit place to put goggles on; they belong to the rubbish pile. A smile never wears out if it is worn pleasantly, and it is always in good style. To have done one's best is the source of greater joy than to have obtained the best. A living that costs no sweat is too costly, for it costs the privilege of a great deal of life's sweetness. When an achievement exhausts all our resources in its accomplishment it will exhaust our capacity to contain the joy of it.—The Christian Herald.

PLOWING WITH DYNAMITE.

A North Carolina farmer, discovering that the heavy clay subsoil of his farm could not be broken up with the plow to sufficient depth for proper retention of moisture and fertilizing elements, has resorted to the novel expedient of blowing up whole fields with dynamite. Observing that the growth of grain was much richer than elsewhere over spots where stumps had been pulled or dug out of the ground, and the earth stirred to the depth of several feet, he drew up conclusion that similar deep disturbances of any sort would produce like results. He therefore literally "plowed" his land with dynamite, and has secured an increase of growth that more than justified the cost of labor. His watermelon crop, for instance, benefited over 30 per cent. by the innovation.

MAKING THE LOG BURN BRIGHT.

"Curious ideas some people have of patents," a New York coal dealer said. "A man came in here the other day and wanted to know if we ever heard of boring holes in the logs we sell for open wood fires, because, he said, if the idea was new he was going to get a patent on it."

"I asked him what might be the use of boring holes in the logs; to hang them up?" He said everyone liked to see the blaze in an open wood fire and when it got low they poked it or put on fresh logs just to see some more flame. If you bored an inch hole through the middle of a log and put it on the fire with the hole vertical it would form a kind of chimney, and you would have a cheerful little jet coming up through it until the log was completely burned away.

"I tried it when I got home that night, and sure enough he was right, but the idea of asking for a patent on a thing as a hole!"—New York Sun.
