Public or Open Meetings.
As there has been quite a difference of opinion as to whether the meetings of our "city fathers" should be open to the public or not, we quote from the law on the subject as follows. We think the matter is quite plain:—
"Notices of all meetings of the Town Council of any incorporated town, except emergency meetings, and all committees of such council, shall be posted in the office of the town clerk, at least twenty-four hours before naming the date, place and hour of such proposed meeting or meetings; and all such meetings shall be open to rate payers of the town."

Presentation and Address.
On Monday evening last at the termination of the services in Long Island church, Rev. F. H. Wright was present, with an address accompanied by a purse containing the sum of forty-three remarks appreciative of the services rendered by Mr Wright during the past three weeks of special services. Mr Wright replied in suitable terms.

Suggestions on Spraying.
The following paragraph from a circular just issued by Prof. John Craig, of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, may be of profit to our fruit growers.
We regret that our space will not permit a publication of the whole circular:— HOW TO SPRAY.
As the treatment is entirely preventive, in order to make spraying effective, it must be commenced early. All parts of trees or plants must be reached with the preventive agent. Drenching is not necessary and is expensive. A thin film or coating of the fungicide deposited upon the foliage will prevent the development of the spores as well as a complete soaking; but it is important that all the leafy surface should be wetted, at least on the upper side. For orchard work a good force pump, which may be fitted into a barrel-side or end—will give satisfaction. It must be of sufficient strength, and fitted with a nozzle which will project the spray in a fine state of division, yet with sufficient force to enter the deeper recesses of the foliage.
More expensive pumps, drawn and operated by horse power, may be purchased, but are seldom necessary except for large orchards. The Vermorel nozzle is a very satisfactory instrument for distributing the liquid.

CO-OPERATIVE SPRAYING.
Some factors which act as deterrents to the progress of spraying may be enumerated as follows. This work, like the introduction of spraying for the prevention of insect enemies, on account of involving new lines of thought and action, is sometimes regarded by the farmer as impracticable on a large scale.
It must be done at certain periods of the year—otherwise it is ineffectual. It involves the purchase of implements and materials which are sometimes difficult to obtain just when required. The success of the work depends also on intelligent adaptation of the treatment to the climatic conditions existing during the spraying period.
To obviate some of these difficulties I would suggest the adoption of a co-operative plan of spraying.
First, where orchards are not large, a few farmers might combine and purchase a spraying outfit, which would serve the community, and if it were possible to have it continuously operated by the same individual, whom proprietors would lend superior facility in using it, an additional advantage would be gained.
Another arrangement could be made as follows:—
A complete spraying outfit, including chemicals, might be purchased by a person who would be prepared to spray under contract, by the acre, or at a stated figure per tree. If the system of combating fungous and insect enemies was introduced, it would obviate much of the prejudice and inconvenience now connected with the work, and spraying would probably in a few years, be the general benefit of orchardists become the general practice.
