WEST END
SAWMILL & LUMBER
YARD
SEASON 1887.

THE Publisher, intending to give greater attention to the needs of the West End, has purchased a large tract of land, containing about 100 acres, situated on the west side of the city, and has commenced operations thereon. The land is well adapted for the growth of timber, and the mill will be ready to receive orders for sawed lumber, shingles, and other articles, in the month of March. The mill will be worked by water power, and will produce a large quantity of lumber, shingles, and other articles, in the most economical manner. The mill will be open to the public, and will receive orders for sawed lumber, shingles, and other articles, in the most economical manner. AT THE MANY YEARS.
A Wedding Long Delayed Because the young man was frequently Contracted to another.

A wedding of more interest than is usually attached to events where the parties are so little known occurred today about four miles west of St. Joseph, Mo., says a special from that city. The contracting parties were W. H. Potter, living near Denver, Col., and Mrs. Julia Cotton, who for a few years past has made her home with her brother, Henry Withers, in Douglas county, Kan. Both the parties are of middle age, and had not seen one another for years until a few months ago. When they were children they went to school together in Carroll county, Ky., and when Potter was a young man of 21 years and came West he was betrothed to Julia Withers, who was the belle of the neighborhood.
Potter went first to Kansas, and then to the mountains, returning to visit his old home twice in five years.

On the last visit it was agreed that the marriage should take place the following spring, but which time he hoped to have some money to make his home what he thought it should be. He returned west and was not heard from for years.
Some one who had known him in the mountains happened to pass through his Kentucky home and circulated the story of his death, founded upon a rumor, as the old gentleman made the acquaintance of a young man who had been in the mountains for some time, and in two years wedded his rival, with whom she lived happily for about eight years. Her husband and she came to Fredericton, Douglas county to make her home with her brother, having no children and no near relatives in Kentucky. Her husband left her a considerable fortune, and as he 40 years at length upon her, she soon became the centre of an admiring circle of friends.

A few months ago Potter came through St. Joseph, quite accidentally on his way to Chicago. He met Withers at the Union Depot, and what is most strange, they recognized each other. Explanations followed, and Potter was driven to the pleasant home of the Withers family. He met his sweetheart of early days, and the old love which had not ceased to burn in their hearts through long years, soon made itself felt.
The courtship was commenced where Mr.
Potter's home, near Denver.

The strange part of the story is yet to come. Potter, while working in the mines had been accused of murdering his partner.
Not being able to establish his innocence at the trial, he was convicted, and the sentence pronounced to imprisonment for life, several good reasons appearing for this. Too proud to inform his sweetheart or family of his condition, he did not write any letters home about it, and the story of the crime did not reach them. The murder was committed in a new claim which Potter who had been in the state courts of Missouri the murder of Tom Lee.
For nearly three years this case has excited a good deal of interest. It dragged along through the state courts.
Maxwell was found guilty and sentenced.
The case was appealed to the highest tribunal, and now, a decision having been rendered, the execution will doubtless go on.

It will be remembered that on the morning of April 14, 1885, a suspicious looking trunk, found at the Southern hotel, at St. Louis, the property of a man who had registered under the name of W. H. L. Maxwell, M. D., was opened by a trunk dealer who had been called in for the purpose. The body of a man was found jammed into it. The police were notified, the case was taken in hand and the body found to be that of Maxwell's companion, who registered as C. A. Pretler, of London, England. Maxwell was traced to San Francisco, and taken to New Zealand. Extradition papers were forwarded, and a telegram sent to arrest him on arrival. He was aroused from sleep on the vessel, on the morning it came into port, and arrested. He was taken to St. Louis, where his trial was begun on the 10th of May, 1886, and a verdict rendered on the 6th of the following June. His defence was that he had killed Pretler accidentally while treating the latter professionally. An appeal was taken to the state supreme court, where the case was affirmed. From there the case was taken to the United States supreme court.

MARKING THE CARDS.
New Game Marked in Cards as They Are Read by a Youth.

We tell cards in the same way that the old man reads - by the sense of feeling gets a prominent Chicago gambler to a Herald reporter. But before we can read these cards they must be put in shape.
This is done with a ring which is worn on the most convenient finger. On the inside of the ring, I mean the part under the finger, is a little steel spur not sharp enough to penetrate the cards and make a hole which would be detected, but a slight indentation, resembling a purple, on the back of the card, but so small that with close observation it would not be noticed. This we cannot see, but we can feel it, and the location is the cipher to the denomination of the card. Of course, we have to see and handle the cards before they can be "marked" but we can handle from five to ten cards each deal, it does not take long to have all the important cards punctured.

Reading cards marked in this way is easy to me. I have one system as to the location of marks, and it is just as simple as telling time by the location of the hands of a clock in the absence of the regular dial figures. Sharp players make their punctures so slight that they cannot be detected by the ordinary sense of feeling. The reading is then done with the ball of the thumb from which the outer cuticle has been removed by acid.
The number skin is very tender, and readily responds when it comes in contact with the "mark." Greeks of this class can be detected by watching the thumb of the right hand in dealing. It is like a silken motion up and down the card then you can get two to one that the dealer has cut a book for the blind to read.

The "Royal" Flamingo Extra are not only true to their name, but are prepared from trials of the best quality.
