At the coming big clay-pigeon tournament in Chicago, it is expected that twenty-five or thirty clubs will be present, representing fairly well the trap-shooters of the States, and it is proposed to take advantage of this and it is proposed to take advantage of this meeting to form a national association, which shall have for its purpose the encouragement and direction of trap-shooting. The English professional scullers, Harry Kelly and Charles Brightwell, have arrived in Germany, where they have training engagements for the coming season. Recently it was stated that Brightwell was to come to America in company with John Largan, but his engagement in Germany is proof that it was only a rumour—as far as Brightwell was

The final arrangements have been made for the three-mile race between G. W. Hosmer and Albert Hamm. It will take place June 14th, at Point of Pines, near Boston, and will prohably be rowed over a three-quarter mile The men will thus have three turns to make, the point of the arrangement being the benefit to the spectators on the beach along the course. Mitchell, the day after his set-to with Edwards, remarked to a reporter :-- "They say I hit a foul blow; but I did nothing of the Edwards is a first-rate fellow, but his riends did too much blowing, and I wanted to show them what I could do. I really won the right in the first round, and if they had let us fight our three minutes, according to the rules, I'd have knocked him out before the round was over." Last Monday night Mitchell stood 20 pounds heavier and 17 years younger than Edwards. Edwards broke his left hand in his fight with Tim Collins years ago, and his right hand when he whipped Steve Taylor. Mitchell was as fresh as a daisy after the battle, while Edwards was quite weak for an hour or more. After the battle it was discovered that he had broken his right hand in the first round. It was a refracture, and pained him very much.

All arrangements except choice of date, An arrangements except choice of date, which will be early in June, have been completed for a glove fight between Charley Lange, of Cleveland, and Captain James C. Daiy, of New York, the pugulist wrestler. It is to take place at Geanga Lake, near Cleveland. The fight will be with soft regulation, with the contraction of the contractio eight-ounce gloves to a finish, under Marquis of Queensberry rules, for $1,000 a side, and Lange has already began to train for the scrimmage. Daly will weigh 200, and Lange harged with Murder on his Wife's Con-

UNADIDLA, Neb., May 15. - The mystery of the Sheatsley suicide, which occurred at Teegarder, Ind., on Dec. 13th, was revived yesterday by the arrest here of Charles E Lortz. It is charged that Lortz choken Sheatsley to death and hung the body in the barn, and getting on the coroner's jury shaped matters so as to get a verdict of suicide. His wife went crazy for a time, and told the story on her recovery.

Fatal Farmers' Feud.

BARDSTOWN, Ky., May 17 .- H. Armstrong and David Brown, of Nelson county, were found dead in a field where they had been ploughing, one shot through the head, the other through the heart, with rifle bullets. It is supposed the murderers were concealed in a clamp of bushes and fired at the men. Wm. Freeze, a neighbouring farmer, who had trouble with the murdered men, is suspected of the crime. It is feared he will be mobbed.

CHICAGO, May 19.—The will of the late C. H. McCormick was admitted to probate today. Alleged Murder in Michigan BAY CITY, Mich., May 16 .- A tragedy occurred at Standish, twenty-nine miles north of Bay City, on Wednesday evening, result-ing in the death of Jeremiah Mahoney, from a pistol shot, alleged to have been inflicted by a revolver in the hands of one William Quigley. He and the accused had some words regarding the driving of saw-logs, and meeting in the Standish house the shot was fired before anyone could interfere. Quigley was arrested and waived examination. The prisoner denies having done the shooting. Deceased was twenty-nine years old, and had wife and two small children,

The Dunkards' Convention. BUFFALO, May 20.—In the throng of pas-sengers at the Central depot yesterday were a number of brawney men in wide brimmed plack hats, and about as many robust matrons in plain drab dresses and close-fitting stiff black hoods. In answer to the reporter's enquiries one of the party said they were known "Brethren in Christ" in Canada and "Dunkards" in the United States. Annually they gather from all parts of the United States and Canada for a religious re-union, and this year their pilgrimage is to Mont-somery county, Pennsylvania, where they will assemble in force during the week. The re-union lasts a month, the faithful attend-

A Brutal Sailor. NEW YORK, May 17 .- Michael Walsh, seond mate of the barque Myrtle, anchored off Whiteston, L.I., while crazed with liquor this morning, engaged in a fight with James Williams, a sailor, who had attacked him with a knife. Walsh struck Williams with an axe, breaking his spinal column, and knocked him dead on the deck. Walsh then attacked the other sailors, who took to the rigging for safety. He went back to the dead body of Williams, beat it to a jelly, and retired to his cabin with a bottle of whiskey belonging to the murdered man. The first mate had difficulty in preventing the grown from culty in preventing the crew from lynching the murderer, who was finally arrested, offering no resistance.

American Wool Growers.

CHICAGO, May 19 .- At the Wool-Growers' Convention here to-day resolutions were adopted setting forth that there are 1,020,000 flock masters in the country, and no State where the industry is not pursued; that the product of wool in 1883 reached three hundred million pounds, with a value of over $100,000,000 and of mutton to the value of 50,000,000; that interference with this industry will seriously impair agricultural pursuits; that we will organize as the Woolgrowers' Association for the purpose of restoring the tariff of 1867, and will not support any party or political candidate until to reach restoration. such restoration.

Assistant District Attorney Brady, counsel for the defendant, on the ground of irregularities in the proceedings. Judge Donohus took the papers and reserved his decision. Phipps' Friends Moving.

DETROIT, May 17.—The friends of Luke Phipps (who is sentenced to be hanged at Sandwich June 17th) at Victor, Ontario county, New York, where he resided until 20 years of age, are about to make an effort to save him from the gallews. The Victor people unite in saying that previous to his unfortunate marriage his habits were above reproach; that he served with distinction in a New York cayslry regiment, and that he was never known to be under the influence of liquor until his domestic difficulties arose. They think the Canadian authorities were too hasty in disposing of his case; that at too hasty in disposing of his case; that at the time the crime was committed he was not the time the crime was committed he was not in his right mind, and that there are suffi-cient extenuating circumstances to warrant imprisonment instead of death. Just what form the effort to save Phipps life will take is not made known.

stringed instruments were good enough for David of old, and they were good enough for Christians of to-day. After this brief introductory Remenyi took a seat on one of the pulpit steps, and played a beautiful selection, and the congregation sat and listened. When he had finished the first selection a wave of applause was started which Mr. Beecher, who sat in his chair on the platform above the violinist, checked, remarking: "I should be sorry to have you the platform above the violinist, checked, remarking: "I should be sorry to have you applied one of my prayers. This church music is a prayer." When he had ceased speaking Remenyi played the Hungarian National Church hymn, and Mr. Beecher thanked him, saying he hoped that in his own country, to which he is about to return, he would have a character. he would have one thousandth part of the happiness he had caused in the United States

The Jersey Lily in a New York Police

New York, May 16.—Mrs. Langtry appeared to-day before the City Court. John A. Stevens had brought a suit against her for $1,500 damages, which he says he has suffered through her refusal to play at his theatre at a matine performance on February 26th last. Mrs. Langtry was escorted into court by Mr. Pion Boucicault. Her physician testified that she was ill at the above time, and had refused to play because he had ordered her not to de so as it would have been very injurious. Mrs. Langtry was sworn, and testified that her real name was Emilie Charlotte Lang try. that her home was at No. 120 West Thirteenth street, New York. She had no other home, although her people, she said, live in Jersey. Regarding the matter of her refusal to play at the matinee for Mr. Stevens, she said she had so much to do rehearsing and supervising the production of her plays that she was afflicted with severe headaches, and she had to give up. The jury took the case into deliberation for fifteen minutes and brought in a verdict for Mrs. Langtry.

LoxDon, May 14.—A monster petition for the restoration of Valentine Baker Pasha to his colonelcy in the British army is in preparation, and will soon be submitted to the Queen. It has already received over 12,000 signatures, including, in addition to these of nearly every officer of the army now in English steamer Brooklyn C try. She took her departure from New Yorkst half-past 9 o'clock on the evening of Arm She, with a miscellaneous cargo, and meral passengers bound to Bristol, Eng. On May 12th the White Star line steamer Cellie from this port for Liverpool arrived at Queenstown, and response to have good prospects of success. It is reported on high anthority that the Prince of Wales; winh has been Baker's most active advocate ever since his adventure with Miss Dickenson in a railway compartment, has at last succeeded in persuading the Queen to consent to the proposed pardon and dition. To the enquiries of the Cellis. tude 50.15, longitude 20.46, passed the Brooklyn City in a disabled condition. To the enquiries of the Celtic as to whether assistance was required, Captain Core, commander of the disabled craft replied that none was needed as he believed he could take his steamer safe into some port. The friends of the steamship masters and officers on this side are now really alarmed for the fate of the vessel and those on board. At the office of Messrs. Arkell and Douglas, the agents in New York of the Brooklyn City, it was stated vestering that this alarm was safe. agents in New York of the brooklyin City, it was stated yesterday that this alarm was not yet shared in by the owners. The Brook-lyn City was built at Stockton, England, in February of 1881, and hails from Bristol.

The Condemned Phipps.

DETROIT, May 15.—A well-known Windsor man claims to have heard a group of crooks in a saloon in Michigan avenue, Detroit, discussing the release of Luke Phipps, sentenced to be hanged at Sandwich on June 17th for wife murder. Observing him they changed wife murder. Observing rum they changed the subject of their conversation. Enough was heard, however, to raise the suspicion that attempts would be made before June 17th to rescue Phipps, It is said a number of men frequently meet in this saloon for the purpose of concocting a plan to make a general gaol delivery at Sandwich, and set Luke Phipps, as well as other prisoners, free. This, coupled with the fact that a Windsor crock has paid several uncalled for visits to Sand-wich since the death-watch was placed over the wife-murderer, has been enough to put the the wife-murderer, has been enough to put the authorities on their guard, in order to prevent another escape. Chief of Police Bains, of Windsor, says:—"If anything of the kind should happen the intruders are likely to get a warm reception from the gaol attendants, who are all well armed, not with pop guns as before, and are on constant duty. Persons before, and are on constant duty. Persons on the outside of the building will not be able to hand or throw in firearms to the prisoners, as was done on the occasion when O'Callaghan and Kennedy were confined there a few months ago. Phipps may have some desperate friends in Detroit but if they attempt to rescue him by main force they will meet with a strong and desperate opposition."

An English Bank Defaulter Arrested in New York.

New York, May 20.—What may prove to be the capture of an important English criminal was effected this morning by officer Doyle, of the Eighteenth precinct. It appears that in September last Gerald Thomas Tully, who for a long time had been a confidential clerk in the Preston Banking Company, one of the leading banking companies in England, disappeared suddenly, and an examination of his accounts revealed the fact that he was a defaulter to revealed the fact that he was a defaulter to the amount of more than £15,000 sterling. There was a belief that he had fied to America, and the police here were at once notified and furnished with a photo of the defaulter. A REWARD WAS OFFERED FOR HIS APPREHEN

The manager of the bank also came on here to aid in the search for Tully, but met with little success. About a week ago Joseph Toulman, a stockholder in the Preston Banking Company, arrived here with his wife, and last evening, while out walking with his wife, they met a man at Sixteenth street and Fourth avenue whom they both recognized as Tully. Keeping him in sight, Toulman reported to the first officer he met, and then addressed Tully by name. The latter, apparently much surprised, denied that he was the man, saying his name was Richardson, and that he lived in West 39th street. Mr. and Mrs. Toulman insisted that they could not be mistaken, as they had known the missing man for twenty years. The manager of the bank also came on here New York, May 19.—The city of Montreal, by their attorneys Moore, Low & Sandford, caused the arrest of Mr. Wm. Henry Mussen in this city in an action for the recovery of money to the amount of $3,997.10, embezzled by him while he was cashier in the City Treasurer's office of the said city of Montreal. And Mussen is now in Ludlow street gaol. Guarding the Dynamiters. LONDON, May 18 .- Additional precautions LONDON, May 18.—Additional precautions have been taken at Birmingham gaol in consequence of reports of contemplated attempts to rescue the dynamiters Daly, Eagan, and McDonnell, who are confined there.—A permanent military guard has been stationed inside of the gaol, and the prisoners are changed nightly from cell to cell, so that none but the most trusted officers of the prison know where they are confined on any particular night.

LONDON, May 19.—Mr. Carwardine, the famous Hereford breeder and exporter of black polled beef and milch cattle, is dead. He was one of the most successful cattle raisers in the world, and could fairly claim rivalry with the randomen of the south western States in the title of Cattle King. He had for years taken all the principa honours in the great annual cattle show given in the city of Hereford every October, and it is estimated that the cattle importers of the United States alone have paid him an average of $100,000 annually for many years.

Gladstone Threatened. LONDON, May 16.—Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Home Secretary, has again become nervous over information which the police nervous over information which the police claim to have discovered of Fenian plots to assassinate himself, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Trevelyan, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and other members of the Government. It is stated that these threats are the cause of the proposed Cabinet conference in Irish affairs, to which Earl Spencer, Lord Lieutenant for Treland, has been summoned from Dublin.
Lord Spencer will be guarded by two special officers throughout his journey, and extraordinary precautions are being taken to secure the safety of the members of the Government. The bridegroom was Sir John Lubbock, baronet, member of Parliament for London University, Fellow of the ment for London University, Fellow of the Royal Society, and a well-known dilettante scientist, especially in the domain of entomology and natural history. He is a rich widower, just 50 years of age, very tall and thin, and has been for years a martyr to gout, which confines him to his bed most of the time. He managed to discard his crutches recently and marched bravely down the misle of St. Peter's with his feet enveloped in huge cloth boots, and as he stood before the altar he repeated the marriage vows in a troubled, querulous voice, to an accompaniment of spasms of pain from yout. The bride was Miss Fox Pitt, daughter of Gen, Rivers Pitt, of the British army, and granddaughter of of the British army, and granddaughter of the peer. She is both young and beautiful.

Power and the Parnellite

LONDON, May 15.-Mr. John O'Connor Power, M. P. for Mayo, Ireland, who has definitely quarrelled with the Parnellites, and who now calls himself an independent Lib-eral, is casting about for a constituency to eral, is casting about for a constituency to represent in the next Parliament. He boasts that he could successfully re-contest the County of Mayo, no matter whom the Parnellites might put in opposition. He does not, however, seem really anxious to make the experiment. He now expresses a hope that the Liberal leaders will allow him to contest some English constituency in their interest. The Libersis have frequently employed Power as a hack orator, sending him around to provincial meetings and elections to speak for their candidates, and paying his expenses. Now that he is seeking a reward for these services, the Parnellites say he has come out in his true colours, and being afraid to solicit the suffrages of an Irish constitu-ency, is begging from the Liberals the price of his treachery to Ireland.

Lord Churchill and the Franchise Bill. LONDON, May 20. - Lord Randolph Churchill has again kicked over the Tory traces; and this evening he exploded a bombshell in the House of Commons by openly advocating the principle of the Franchise bill which increases the suffrage in Ireland. The debate upon the measure was exceedingly animated, and the House was crowded with members and the House was crowded with members and spectators. The unexpected stand taken by the young leader of the Conservatives astoniahed the House. Lord Randolph began by frankly avowing that he had changed his opinions as to the justice and expediency of the measure introduced by the Government, so far as it related to the extension of the tranchise in Ireland. He declared that he tranchise in Ireland. He declared that he tranchise in Ireland to trust the political instinct of the Trish rural labourers, and he begged his Conservative brethren emancipate themselves from antiquated of ditions which failed to recognize the product of political growth, and the significance of current events. These sentiments were loudly chested by the Parnellites, and for a few minutes there was a scene of great excitement in the House.

Sir Stafford Nurthcote, the Conservative member for Devonshire, was intensely disgusted, and, with about twenty of his followers, left the House before the division took place. Lord Randolph Churchill and a dozen other Tories marched solidly into the Liberal lobby upon the division, and of course the lobby upon the division, and of course the Government had an overwhelming majority.

Lord St. Leonard's Offence.

Lord St. Leonards, who is still in Brent-Lord Str Leonards, who is still in Brent-ford gael, awaiting trial for his criminal as-sault on Mrs. Emma Cole, becomes daily more obstreperous. He has been unable to raise money enough to pay for prison lux-uries which he has ordered and consumed, and his friends are fast deserting him, as they become convinced of the profound rascality of his act. He now threatens to revenge himself upon the nobility for his outcast state, and demands to be scoorded his privilege as baron to be tried by his peers. If this were carried out it would certainly result in a oopular outery, which might prove irresistible for the abolition of all such privileges of the

Will Lord St. Leonards be able to make a nccessful defence against this charge 2"
"Yes. His defence is perfect. This girl, mma Cole, is a bad lot; and the arrest of my brother on such a charge and the refusal to admit him to bail were infamous outrages, and let me tell you that after his acquittal my brother will prosecute everyone concerned in bringing this charge against him for conpiracy and perjary."

"How is he treated in Brentford gaol?"

"Ho is as well treated as anyone could b in such a place. He is allowed to provide his own meals, and to have all the newspapers and other comforts that he desires at his own expense."

"Is it true that he has pleaded his privilege as a peer, and demanded a trial at the bar of the House of Lords;"

"No. It is true that this course was suggested; but the general opinion of his counsel was averse to the proposition, and it was dropped. All the arrangements for his defence have now been left in my hands, and I have no fears as to the result."

LONDON, May 18.—The British Government in its fractic efforts to get out of the Soudan embroglio, is now searching for a new Gordon. It leaked out to-day that the Ministry have for sometime past been making the most desperate exertions to find another military diplomat, who will be willing to go to the Upper Nile arms? with only a cane and a barrel of British gold and partn up a peace with the Meddi. It is admitted by the Ministers that this is what was expected of General Gordon, and the Liberal leaders do not now hesitate to say in their Cabinet conferences and secret meetings that he has sorely ences and secret meetings that he has sorely disappointed expectation and has made a sad mess of the whole business. "He has muffed whole thing" is the precise expre used by one prominent member of the Cabinet. They dare not say this openly, for the public still believe that General was sent on a military errand, and the whole tide of public opinion as recently expressed has shown that Gordon still the idol of the nation. The Government fares not tell the truth about the real nature dares not sell the truth about the real nature of the business entrusted to Gordon, and the people consider him a martyr, deserted to his military enemies by a Ministry afraid to send an expedition to his rescue. The anathemas heaped upon his head by the Liberal leaders are loud and deep. They hesitate to obey public sentiment by organizing a military relief expedition, because they know there is no real presently for it and foar an is no real necessity for it and fear an attack from the Radicals of their own party, and they do not care enough for Gordon per sonally, after what they consider his fasco, to brave the public anger by making the truth known. At the same time they are willing and ready to expend any reasonable amount of money to save the beleaugered garrisons and pacify the Soudan, and have intimated a willingness to grant an annuity and the Governorship of Kordofan, Darfour, or the whole Soudan to the troublesome Mehdi. All that the Ministry need now is some adventurous soldier of fortune with sufficient nerve and prestige to go to El Obeid and make the best terms possible with El Mehdi. The mission has been tendered to several British officers, including Adjutant General Lord Wolseley, and declined with thanks by everyone so far approached. The name of Baker Pasha has been mentioned. and it has also been suggested that Mr. Henry M. Stanley, if he could obtain suffi-cient leave of absence from his present em-ployer, the king of the Belgians, would be a very suitable person to convey the offer of truce and treasure to El Mehdi. It is stated positively that the Government is fully determined to relieve General Gordon by sending another Gordon to take his place as negotiator with the False Prophet, and that efforts have been made to secure Stanley.

London, May 19.—At last an apologist has been found for the scandalous treatment of the British troops by the commissary and transportation departments of the English army engaged in the Egyptian campaign of 1882. He is Lieut. Gen. Sir John Miller Adye, G.C.B., the predecessor of Mr. H. B. Brand, M.P., as Surveyor-General of Ordnance. He gave testimony to-day before the Select Committee of the House of Commons engaged in investigating the subject, and being in a degree responsible for the alleged frauds and abuses, he naturally tried to explain them away, but without much success, He denied and attempted to ridicule the charges, and even went so far as to declare that everything had been admirably managed. In regard to the huge branding irons that could not be used without disabling the mules, Gen. Adye convulsed the committee by seriously answering, "Yes, they were somewhat large, but when that fact was discovered they should not have been used. Egyptian Campaign Abuses, covered they should not have been used. Anyhow, I think it was not really necessary to brand the animals, because it was safe to assume that all the mules that were with the expedition were Government property."
