

The Canadian A. P. C.

In the Report of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, very special reference is made to the efforts of our own A. P. C. and the appointment of a Committee to take up the question of enlisting the efficient help of the Teachers throughout Canada in the Campaign. The following is an extract from the Report:—

"In connection with the appointment of such a committee it may not be out of place to give a brief account of a great five days' meeting of school teachers held at St. John's, Newfoundland, in August 1908. There were 500 hundred teachers present, gathered from all parts of the island. The Convention was suggested and arranged for by the Hon. John Harvey, the President of the Newfoundland Association for the Prevention of Consumption, and was opened by him in a speech which gave a vivid account of the condition of Newfoundland in respect to this disease.

"He showed that during the past seven years there had been an alarming increase of consumption in the island. There were 645 deaths caused by it in 1901; 710 in 1902; 769 in 1903. The year 1904 showed a considerable reduction in the number of deaths from this cause, but the improvement was only temporary, as in the next two years, 1905 and 1906 the deaths were 804 and 933, respectively, followed in 1907 by another fall in the number of deaths, they being in that year 801.

"The vital statistics of these years show that the rise and fall in the deaths from consumption were accompanied by similar increases and decreases in the same years in the number of deaths from cancer, influenza, typhoid, scarletina and measles.

"The imminent danger to the whole colony from consumption, the enormous loss entailed by it upon the industry and commerce of the country were vividly portrayed and the teachers were earnestly urged to use the position of influence which they occupy for the purpose of stamping out the disease. Mr. Harvey pointed out the fact that the great hope for the future lay in securing the right kind of education, and that the teachers of the schools and colleges of the province constituted the army of defence upon which they must rely as the chief means, in co-operation with all other agencies, to clear the country of this dreadful pest. The teachers present seemed to catch the spirit of the President and went to work with a will to fit themselves to do their share in trying to rid the country of the plague.

"There were lectures on the "Cause and Prevention of Consumption," illustrated by lantern slides. Addresses by competent medical men, and leading educationalists on various aspects of the question, and discussions by the teachers, all of which combined to impart a large amount of information, to point out the lines of successful defence and to inspire all with an earnest determination to fight the foe by the use of every available means.

"One cannot read the proceedings of this remarkable five days' convention without feeling that the people of Newfoundland are beginning to realize the seriousness of the situation, and that they are determined to meet the rising danger with intelligence and courage.

"The success of this Convention raises the question whether it be possible to do something of the same kind in every province in the Dominion."

POOR GIRL, PITY HER.

Growing? Yes, into weakness, not into strength. Studies? Yes, she has plenty of them. Tired? Of course she is and weak, too, does not eat enough and digests far less than enough. This girl's condition, how common it is—how seldom noticed by parents! Give your girl Ferrozone (blood food), then watch her appetite improve, see her lips and cheeks grow ruddy, her step elastic, her spirits buoyant. All this great gain is the result of eating and digesting enough, making plenty of red rich blood and thereby fortifying the muscles, brain and nerves. Ferrozone (blood food) gives a woman strength, brings vim and endurance to weak girls. Ferrozone is a blood-maker, nerve-strengthening and brain tonic of marvellous value. Try a box, 50 cents.

Our Montreal Letter.

Sorrows at the King's Death.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Montreal is in deep mourning over the death of King Edward the Seventh. The kindly references made to the deceased Ruler in all the Catholic and Protestant Churches of the city on Sunday last showed how well he was beloved by all classes of citizens, and how wisely his high office as Sovereign was considered by his ability, tact, prudence and management of an Empire, the greatest the world has ever known. A great power has laid down his arms, and his voice is stilled in death. But his memory will live on, and future historians will speak of him as a great, powerful, and most beneficent ruler. As peace with all nations was his guiding star and true motto, he'll be justly styled: "Good King Edward the Peacemaker." May his successor walk faithfully in his footsteps, and the "King is Dead," "Long Live the King," be echoed truthfully throughout the Empire.

Probably never since Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897 have the buildings of Montreal been either so elaborately or so expensively decorated as they are at present as a mark this time not of Montreal's joy but of Montreal's sorrow.

All St. James street particularly between McGill and Place d'Arms Sq., the black and purple festooned buildings are particularly numerous.

The Royal Bank, the Bank of British North America, as two institutions, one by reason of its name and the other by its origin, particularly attached to royalty, are unusually well decorated, as is the London and Lancashire Building and that of the Commercial Union Assurance Company.

The grouping of the standards and flags at the Windsor Station is exceedingly effective. It embraces the entrances to the station and the windows of the general offices—all of which reflect a high order of artistic skill.

At Bonaventure station the designs embrace the treatment of the colonnade facing the square are simple and tasteful.

At the City Hall the Council Chamber as well as the whole exterior of the civic palace is draped in deepest mourning. The Mayor's dias, as well as the galleries and columns of the Council Room, are festooned with streamers of black and purple and the portrait of the late King was also draped. The Royal Arms, draped in black and purple and hung with the Union Jack, are placed above the Mayor's throne.

Every store on St. Catherine street, from Bleury to Guy, has some mark of mourning exhibited in its window. Among the most appropriate and artistic examples of window dressings are those in the windows of the big departmental stores, Rea's, Murphy's and Morgan's.

The smaller merchants display draped portraits of his late Majesty in their windows.

The newspaper offices, especially the "Star" office, are all artistically draped.

THE CIVIC PROCLAMATION. The Death of the King.

In order that all citizens may have an opportunity of making public their feelings of grief on account of the death of our beloved King, I hereby proclaim Friday, the 20th inst., a day of general mourning, and I respectfully invite all citizens to observe the day as such.

(Signed) JAMES J. GUERIN, Mayor.

The Mayor besides proclaiming the 20th inst., a day of public mourning, issued instructions that all civic employees should bear on the left arm, for a period of thirty days, a narrow band of crepe as an indication of the general sorrow at the death of the King.

The Mayor and Ald. Tetreau have left for New York, whence they sail on board the Majestic, berths having been reserved for them on that steamer. They will arrive in London on the 18th, two days before the funeral.

Special ceremonial robes will be required by the Mayor in taking part in the funeral procession, and this morning His Worship called measurements to the Court Tailors, Messrs. Davis & Son, Hanover Square, to prepare a set of mayoral robes. They will be ready on his arrival in London.

As is known, the special costume consists of ermine-trimmed robe, doublet, knickerbockers, silken hose and leather shoes bearing huge silver buckles. He will bring his insignia of office with him, representing, as he does, the most important city of the British Empire, outside of the United Kingdom, he will be accorded a place on par with the mayors of the most important centres of the Motherland, outside of the city of London.

R. J. LOUIS CUDDIHY, Montreal, May 12th, 1910.

Eight Students Drowned.

Were Out for a Row, When one of the Boats Sprung a Leak—All got into one Craft, Which, Being Overloaded, Began to Sink.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 12.—Six girls and two boys lost their lives to-day while boating on what is known as the Old Paper Mill dam.

Twelve students of the Huntington High School got two boats at noon and started for a row on the dam. The dam is nearly a half mile in width, and when the two crafts had reached the centre of the body of water it was noticed that one of the boats had sprung a leak. The two boats were then pulled together by the young men of the party, and an effort was being made to transfer the girls from the leaky boat to the safer craft.

The last one of the party had scarcely set foot in the boat when it began to sink under the combined weight of the party.

The girls were helpless to save themselves, and the boys in the party, with the exception of Dodson, being expert swimmers, struck out for the shore, which all reached in safety. Minnich, in the excitement, it is presumed, thought that all the young women had succeeded in reaching land. He had no sooner gained the bank than he noticed the girls hanging to the rapidly sinking boat. The boy dashed into the water and swam to the craft. Only two of the girls were clinging to the boat, the others having gone down for the last time. Seizing Miss Davenport, Minnich again started for the shore, but the exertion was too much for the gallant lad, and the two went down together when they were within a stone's throw of the bank.

When the boat sprang a leak there was no excitement among the members of the party, but as soon as the sound craft began to fill with water it appeared as though every member became terror-stricken. The shrieks of the drowning girls could be plainly heard on the bank of the dam, but there was no one near who could launch another boat and go to the rescue. Three of those who were drowned would have graduated this summer. After grappling for less than two hours all the bodies were recovered. Not one of the parents of the drowned boys and girls knew of the accident until all the bodies had been brought ashore.

Our Animal Friends.

A meeting of the Three Bands of Mercy already organized in our schools, was held in the Temperance Hall yesterday afternoon. It consisted of the "Spencer," the "Victoria," and the "Springdale" Bands, with Miss Stirling, Miss Bright and Mrs. Gosling, as Presidents, respectively. Nearly three hundred children and several ladies and gentlemen were present. Mrs. Gosling was in the chair and explained the purpose and work of these Bands of Mercy. After which the Hon. D. J. Greene delivered a most excellent address upon the claims of animals. He dwelt upon the pleasure children miss who have no domestic pets, and urged them to cultivate the habit of feeling and acting towards animals with kindness and sympathy, declaring the results would be as beneficial to the children themselves as to the animal creation. The audience thoroughly appreciated his remarks, and applauded heartily at the close.
