The Name of the Opposition Party.

Our statement in Monday's issue that the name Liberal-Union Party was decided upon before last election is not correct.

The leader of the Liberal Party, Sir papers Bond objected and the matter Robert Bond, objected and the matter was dropped, and no arrangement to that effect met with his assent. The present leader of the Opposition, Mr. Lloyd, had no objection to the name Union being added to the old name liberal, nor has he ever had to the best of our recollection since the mat- ment. See advertisement. ter was discussed. At the meeting held last Friday the matter was discussed again and the addition was made. It appears to us that the name Liberal-Union is in accordance with their club room last night; after many the facts of the situation. The policy is that of the last election, which included certain planks that the Fishermen's Union then asked for, and the nembers of the party come both from the old Liberal ranks and from the ranks of the Fishermen's Protective Union. We mention this matter because the statement of last Monday implied the assent of Sir Robert Bond to a change before last election, and it is only fair to him that his attitude should not be misrepresented.

Brought out, as it was, under the auspices of perhaps the greatest of all' British authorities on food chemistry, Bovril marked an important step in advance of the then existing concentrated beef preparations, of which Liebig's Extract of Meat, originated by the well-known German Chemist Baron Justus von Liebig, was probably the best known. Bovril thus secured for British initiative and enterprise the leading place in an imbeloved husb erprise the leading place in an important sphere of industry—a position it has ever since maintained. Mr. G. L. Johnston (Vice-Chairman) referred to the increased cost of raw naterial: "I recently looked over some notes that I made at the facderial: I made at the tacky during the first year we manuctured—the year 1896. The above Spring is made right into the Bed, thus doing away with all wood. which makes it vermin-proof. Will not sag as it is fastened to sides as well as ends with stretcher in centre to keep the bed secure, thus ensuring stability and makes a perfect level Bed. Made right in our building and cost $1.00 less than with wood rame. Can be unhooked and rolled up very small, a great convenience when removing. We can also fit it to any bed now in use as we have the machines to punch and bore the holes. So we say patronize the store that is always economizing for you, and might add that despite the serious advances in prices on everything else, our prices have remained the same the past two years, which the public should appreciate these days of high prices.
