Second Reading To-Day.

The second reading of the Bill to amend the Election Act of 1913, in other words, to enfranchise the women of the Colony, is on to-day's Order Paper for its Second Reading. If it comes up during the day an interesting discussion will probably ensue as the member for St. George's intends to fight it bitterly, and several other members on both sides of the House are anything but enthusiastic over the Bill. Although the Bill has been introducted by the Prime Minister, something for which the Minister of Public Works must have been very thankful, there is a certain amount of doubt expressed as to whether it will go through. It is expected that there will be a large gathering of ladies at the House this afternoon in the hope that the Bill will come up
