"Hold, sergeant, that will never do," said the adjutant-general. "The whole company is watching you. You advance the left foot first. Remember your own instructions. Ready! Charge bayonet!"
A shout went up from the whole company as Garfield attempted to obey the order, right footfirst. He enjoyed the fun as well as any of them, and as the senators and representatives dispersed, shouts of "Left! Right!" resounded through the corridors of the Capitol.

accompelled to acknowledge that the nation is a relization in time of that eternal government of God which covers all things visible and invisible from the beginning. This Worl of God, therefore, lays its finger with awill significance upon the sources of authority, saying righteousness, righteousness, reannl, simple righteousness which has forever and forever stood by the throne of the Almighty. In the high places of power we need no black-letter wisdom but only the clear seeing of a pure heart. We may be positively sure then, that when our legislation begins to grow willy and sinuous, "speaking low out of the dust as one that hath a familiar spirit," we have fallen from that high consciousness of divine origin which alone can establish a nation.—[James H. without the use of strong chemicals, while the ink was made of nut galls. To-day much of the paper for books is made, at least in part, of wood pulp, treated with powerful acids, while the ink is a compound of various substances naturally at war with the flimsy paper upon which it is laid. The printing of two centuries ago has improved with age; that of to-day, it is feared, will, within 50 years, have eaten its way through the pages upon which it is impressed.—[The Paper World. The tacitumity of backwoodsmen used to be much illustrated by American viters, but now, perhaps because backwoodsmen are too few to form as conspicuous a national element as formerly, their peculiarities are not often mentioned. From Canada, which still has wat areas of almost unbroken forest, we received the following verbatim re bort of a conversation between a city sport sman and his backwoods guide, Bill Buckshaw:

"You have killed moose, Bill, I suppose?"

Insufficient Ladder Equipment for the Fire Brigade.

The Piremen Drilled-Unsafe Condition of the Extension Ladder-An Aerial Apparatus

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the fire alarm at the corner of Wellington and Dun-das streets was sounded by a deputation of aldermen — No. 3 Committee members. They had given instructions to Chief Ro They had given instructions to Chief Roce at the last meeting to exercise the firemen at ladder drill, and this occasion was a public test on the McCornick Company's high building. All three brigades were on the spot in good time. The antiquated truck of No. 1 brigade was relieved of its longest ladder, which was placed in position. Then the extension was run up, making its total height 50 feet. This only reached the top windows, while the roof was 10 or 15 feet higher. One of the firemen scaled the height for the edification of the civic solons. The ladder was taken down and put up three or four times for practice; solons. The ladder was taken down and put up three or four times for practice; then it was replaced in the truck, the hose wagons and the men returned to their quarters, and the erowd of onlookers dispersed, thinking they had been made the victim of an April fool's trick.

The test was important in one respect: it showed clearly the inadequacy of the present ladder equipment. The extension ladder bent under the weight of one man; but in case of a fire it would take at least four tent to grarty up the hose to the top. Add Garfield's First Drill.

When President Lincoln issued his first rall for volunteers Garfield was a member of the Ohio Senate. It was a member of the Ohio Senate. It was a member of the Ohio Senate. It was a matter of patriotism and of State pride that Ohio should have her quota of the 75,000 men promptly in the field. Garfield was asked to raise a regiment from his district. He needed no great urging. He knew nothing about military matters, he said, but "it was never too late to learn." A legislative was never too late to learn." A legislative widl and a ten 'drill squad' was organized, and at ten 'drill squad' was organized, and at ten dolled the dome of the Capitol rotunda.

The "position of the soldier" was mintely explaiued, amid general merriment, hand "marking time" followed, and then an advance of three paces to the halt. The alternative orders, "Left I Right!" had been executed fairly well, when Garfield auddenly broke the silence.

"Say, general, why don't you go off with the right foot first? That strikes me as good sense."

"Say, general, why don't you go off with the right foot first? That strikes me as good sense."

"Say, general, why don't you go off with the right foot first? Charles may be all right for the parpose they serve. The longest of them is 29 feet. The remedy surgested is the purchase of an aerial truck. in "Senator," said the adjutant-general, "you are the first sergeant of the company. I will give you a chance to explain your own method presently. "Never too late to learn," you know."

With that a musket was sent for and handed to the senator.

"Now," said the adjutant-general, "before you begin your instructions we must have at least one exercise with the gun, I will keep out of your reach, but when I give the order, 'Charge bay-onet!' you will advance one step and strike cut as if you meant to run me through."

The charge was ordered and executed with vigor. action was deterred until they should have an opportunity of seeing what could be done with the present ladders.

Another thing that needs renewal is the ladder truck. This ancient vehicle has a decided rag in the middle, and some day it will probably split in two on the way to a fire if used

The Bible is the statesman's manual. Why? Because its histories unfold to us the divine, and so eternal, constitution of the nation. Experts are predicting that the books of to-day will fall to pieces before the middle of the century. The paper in the books that have survived two or three centuries was made by hand, of honest rags, and Great Keys Such as St. Peter carried in pictures, and the rest of us carried in discomfort, went suddenly out of use on the introduction of the famous "YALE" locks. Then some happy people jumped to the conclusion that any small key meant a "YALE" lock. Not so. It's easy to make a worth-
