Euclid Avenue Methodists Indorse Their Pastor's Views-The Ministerial Association Sympathize with Mrs. Alex. Mackenzie.

Mrs. Alex. Mackenzic.

Torongo, May 2.—At the close of last evening's service in Euclid Avenue Methodist Church Rev. A. M. Phillips, the pastor, was requested by his congregation to print and publish his recent sermons on the atonement, in connection with which, it will be remembered, the question of his orthodoxy was raised a few weeks ago. The resolution requesting the same practically indorsed Mr. Phillips' views on the question. Mr. Phillips consented to do as requested.

the invitation. A committee was appointed at the last A committee was appointed at the last meeting of the Ministerial Association to draft a resolution of sympathy with Mrs. Alex. Mackenzie on the death of her husband, Hon. A. Mackenzie, reported this morning at a meeting of that body through Rev. Dr. Johnston, and a long resolution emphasizing the virtues of the deceased statesman and eulogizing his character was passed.

ON THE BACK SEAT.

This May or May Not be a True Story of Crime and Expiation. [From the New York Sun.] I boarded the train at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and had scarcely got seated when I noticed a little woman on the last seat of the right-hand side. I could not seat of the right-hand side. I could not see her face on account of the heavy veil she wore, and she leaned over against the window so heavily that I thought her asleep. There were only a few passengers of us in the car, and everybody seemed to shrink into himself as if disgusted.

"Who's the woman back there?" I asked of the conducter as he sat down head of the conductor as he can be conducted as head of the conductor as he can be conducted as head o beside me for a few minutes.

"Don't know; going to St. Louis," he said.

"Sick ?"

said.

"Sick?"

"Maybe, and maybe it's something on her mind. I've got an idea that she's watching for somebody."

It was a winter day and raining at that. It was dusk, but the lamps had not been lighted, when six or eight people got on at station. Among them was a couple whom I believed to be newly wedded, although they were middle-aged. The man was fine looking and the woman really handsome, and they took a seat about the middle of the car with their backs to the veiled woman. When I happened to look back I found her sitting bolt upright and acting as if very much excited. Fifteen minutes after the train had pulled out of the station the little woman passed me as she went down the aisle. The lamps were alight now, and I saw a pistol clutched in her with the all. now, and I saw a pistol clutched in her right hand. The couple referred to were acting very lovingly towards each other, but I had not connected the little woman but I had not connected the little woman with them at all. She passed them by two or three feet and then wheeled, raised her veil, and stood with the pistol pointed full in the man's face.

No one can be prepared for action under such circumstances. Every one in the car was looking at the woman, and everybody realized that a traced was at hand, but realized that a tragedy was at hand, but nobody moved. For fully 30 seconds the woman stood like a statue, the pistol within two feet of the man's face. Those in front of him said that he flushed up at first sight of her, and then grow pale as death. He tried to speak, but his lips uttered no sound. The woman beside him looked, raised her hands, and sank back in a dead faint

"George, I have come to say good-bye!" said the little woman at last, and her words were followed by the dull click of the hamwere followed by the dull click of the hammer falling on a cartridge. There was no explosion. Her arm slowly fell until it rested beside her, and with a sobbing wail she sank down in the aisle and was helpless. All of us moved at once. She was lifted to a seat and a woman took charge of her. We turned to the man for explanations, but he had fallen back and his eyes were closed. Two minutes later we knew that he was dead—as surely dead as if a bullet had pierced his brain. A doctor who came in from the car ahead said it was a case of heart tailure. He was the husband of the little woman who had been riding so long heart failure. He was the husband of the little woman who had been riding so long on the back seat. They had quarreled, and he had become infatuated with the woman beside him. The wife had planned to encounter them and kill him. He had looked into the face of death for 30 seconds, and the strain on his nerves had stopped the flow of life as suddenly as if struck by a thunderbolt.

A corpse, an adventuress, a widow! It struck by a thunderbolt.

A corpse, an adventuress, a widow! It ended there for us, but not for them. Was it any wonder that as the train rushed on through the darkness each one of us seemed to hear a voice, saying:

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer exeruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.
