TO THE YOUNG MEN

Rev. Dr. Talmage Addresses His Latest Sermon.

Lessons From Absalom's Conduct-Essentials to Success in Life.

they will tell you they never knew men who continuously broke the Sab-bath who did not fail in mind, body or moral principle. Oh, my friends, keep the Lord's day. You may think it Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—In his sermon yesterday Rev. Dr. Talmage, preaching to the usual crowded audience, took up a subject of universal interest to young men. His text was selected from II. Samuel, xviii., 23: "Is the young man Absalom safe?"

The heart of David, the father, was wrapped up in his boy Absalom. He work! A man said that he would was a splendid boy, judged by the rules of worldly criticism. But, notwith of worldly criticism. But, notwithstanding all his brilliancy of appearance, he was a bad boy, and broke his father's heart. He had marshaled an army to overthrow his father's government. The day of battle had come. The conflict was begun. David, the father, sat between the gates of the palace waiting for the tidings of the conflict. Oh, how rapidly his heart beat with emotion. There is one questions that springs from his heart to tions that springs from his heart to the lip, and springs from the lip into the ear of the besweated and bedusted messenger, flying from the battlefield- Sunday crop. the question, "Is the young man Absalom safe?" When it was told to Dalom safe?" When it was told to Da-vid, the King, that, though his armies had been victorious, his son had been slain, the father turned his back upon the congratulations of the nation, and went up the stairs of his palace his slain, the father turned his back upon the congratulations of the nation, and went up the stairs of his palace, his heart breaking as he went, wringing his hands sometimes, and then again pressing them against his temples, as though he would press them in, as though he would press them in, are full, and there's no chance for me!" Oh! young man, cheer arriving! "Oh Absalom! my son! my as though he would press them in, chance for me!" Oh! young man, cheer crying: "Oh, Absalom! my son! my son! my son! would God I had died for thee. Oh, Absalom! my son! my son!" of God and His righteousness, and all of God and His righteousness, and all

My friends, the question which David, the King, asked in regard to his son, is the question that resounds today in the hearts of hundreds of parents. Yea, there are a great multitude of young men who know that the put the cup of life to your thirsty presents. question of the text is appropriate when asked in regard to them. They know the temptations by which they They it—bleeding mercy, long-suffering mer-they cy. Despise all other friendships, prove are surrounded; they see so many who started life with as good resolutions as despise not God's love for your dying they have who have fallen in the path, and they are ready to hear me ask the question of my text, "Is the young man Absalom safe?" Just look upon society today. Look at the shipwreck of men for whom fair things were promised, and who started life with every advantage. Look at those who have dropped from high social position, and from great fortune, disgraced for time, disgraced for eternity. All who sacrifice their integrity come to overthrow. Now, what are the safeguards of young men? The first safeguard of which I want to speak is a love of home. God pity you, young man, if you never had a home. It may have been a lowly roof, but you cannot think of it without a dash of emotion. Fresco on palace wall does not mean so much to you as those rough-hewn rafters. But there and those here who have their second dwelling place. That also is sacred forever. There you established the first family altar. There your children were born. In that room flapped the wing of the death angel. Under that roof, of the death angel. Under that roof, when your work is done, you expect to lie down and die. Now, let me say that I never knew a man who was said that he had been called upon in Philafaithful to his early and adopted home, who was given over at the same time to any gross form of wickedness. If you find more enjoyment in the club room, in the literary society, in the art salon, than you do in these unpretending home pleasures, you are on the road | given. to ruin. Though you may be cul off from your early associates, and though you may be separated from all your kindred, young man, is there not a room somewhere that you can call your own? Though it be the fourth story of a third-class boarding house, into that room gather books, pictures and a harp. Hang your mother's por-trait over the mantel. Bid unholy mirth er's love, and a sister's confidence, call

Another safeguard for these young men is industrious habit. There are a great many people trying to make th way through the world with their instead of by honest toil. There is a try to the city. He fails twice before he is as old as his father was when he first saw the spires of the great town. He is seated in his room at a rent of $2,000 a year waiting for banks to declare their dividends and the stocks to run up. After awhile he gets impatient. He tries to improve his penmanship by making copy-plates of other merchants' signatures. Never mind—all is right in business. After awhile he has his estate. Now is the the close of the past season 26,000 seal time for him to retire to the country, pups were found starved to death, amid the flocks and the herds, to culture the domestic virtues.

Now, the young men who were his and were tumbled into a dishonorable seals has been practically ignored. grave, and then went into the gnash-ish of teeth. The way of the ungodly United States to stop the barbarity battle shoot into the ground instead of the into the hearts of their enemies. They Are apt to take aim too low, and it is very often that the captain, going into of seals. conflict with his men, will cry out:

"Now, men, aim high." There are a great many men who start the important structure of life without knowing whether it is to be a rude Tartar's hut, or a St. Mark's Cathedral, and begin to write out the intricate poem of their life without knowing whether it is to be a Homer's "Odyssey" or a rhymester's botch. Out of one thou-sand, nine hundred and ninety-nine have no life plot. Alas! that there should be on this sea of life so many ships that seem bound for no port. They are swept every whither by wind and wave, up by the mountains and down by the valleys. They sail with no chart. They gaze on no star. They long for no harbor. There never were grander opportunities opening before young men than are opening now. Young men of the strong arm and of the stout heart, and of the bounding Sabbath. Tell me how a young man spends his Sabbath, and I will tell you what are his prospects in business, and I will tell you what are his prospects for the eternal world. Our bodies are seven-day clocks, and they need to be wound up, and if they are not wound up they run down into the grave. But of this we feel assured, that God's blessing has been with us. Although we cannot point to many acquisitions to our membership roll, who can say how much good has been done to those who have listened, with rapt attention, to the many helpful lessons from his word, and the many answered prayers which have reached us through letters from the faithful workers in the mission halls of France? We have held four meetings (quarterly) this year, with an average attendance of about twenty. Although numerically not largely attended, we other things will be added. Your great want is a new heart, and in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ I tell you so trust all have been amply repaid for coming. What the Hudson Bay Company say of our . . .

"This is the latest and best carpet of Canadian manufacture. In the Imperatrix you get a genuine Chenille Axminster with a French back, in which you can have as many colors and shades as the most expensive Royal Gobelin Axminster. The experience of years has proved that cut pile carpets wear longer than any other class, and in the Imperatrix you have the best value in a cut pile carpet ever offered."

EPPS'S COCOA. BREAKFAST-SUPPER.

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa. Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—[Civil Service Gazette.
