

BOILER INSP. & INS. CO.
CONSULTING ENGINEERS
HOLDERS OF PATENTS
OFFICE—Free Library Building

SIXTH YEAR
ON THE IRISH PROBLEM

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND POPULAR MEASURES

Lord Spencer and Mr. John Morley at Westminster, Mr. Chamberlain at Birmingham and the Duke of Argyll at Glasgow.

LONDON, April 21.—The Marquis of Salisbury, in a letter published this afternoon, states that he is convinced that the nation will indignantly reject the Gladstone's desperate scheme for the government of Ireland. A conference of the Conservative Association of Great Britain will be held on May 16, to consider the Gladstone's scheme and to reorganize the party. Lord Salisbury will address a meeting at St. James' Hall on the evening.

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking at a meeting in Birmingham this evening, said that Mr. Balfour would not regard as permanent any settlement of the Irish Government which would not enable him to sever the last link between Ireland and England. No free people worthy of the name of Englishmen would accept restrictions in their representative authority by Mr. Gladstone's proposal. As regards Mr. Chamberlain's suggestion of the Land Purchase Bill the amount proposed by him was only a paper estimate. It could not be decided at any time $100,000,000 would be required. Mr. Chamberlain would sooner quit politics altogether than pledge British credit for such a sum and for such a purpose. He would rather be allowed to attend Westminster and vote on all matters not specially related to the Parliament at Dublin. He would rather give and join no coalition. He would support Mr. Gladstone all that he consistently could in the latter's proposals. The modifications he suggested would be left to a committee, but the Government ought to give a guarantee that they would be accepted. The resolution was carried. Mr. Chamberlain's proposal.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone. He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way. The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

CELEBRATING THE NEW YEAR
The Burness Fire Monday and Tuesday Manday, April 21.—To-day being the Burness New Year, fifty followers of the Myzyling Prince set fire to the city in several places at 4 o'clock in the morning.
Hundreds of houses have been burned.
The Treasury, Postoffice and the smaller buildings within the Palace enclosure have been destroyed. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the walled city has been destroyed. The troops pursued and captured several of the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English military officer, was killed. A number of conspirators took refuge in the city with 300 of the Prince's followers, many of whom were killed, and many were wounded on both sides.

The British expedition sent against the Kaechen tribe has been compelled to retreat. The rebels, in overwhelming force, made a desperate attack upon them, charging into the battery of mountain guns and driving the expedition back. Reinforcements were ordered from Mandalay. The rebels have captured the Meagaden Police Station.
Mr. Devlin's men were killed with swords and captured 23 prisoners.

Lord Dufferin's Interpretation of Recent Proceedings
LONDON, April 21.—Lord Dufferin, Viceroy of India, telegraphed that he does not attach any importance to the news received yesterday and today from Barmah. The Viceroy states that he has received no information, only two British soldiers were wounded and none killed in the encounter which took place during his attempt yesterday to reach the latter end of the which Mr. Chamberlain said he would be glad to consider Ulster a separate assembly. The modifications he suggested would be left to a committee, but the Government ought to give a guarantee that they would be accepted. The resolution was carried. Mr.
Chamberlain's proposal.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the Parcellists when he received from the position assumed by him before the House. He stated that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as embodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase Bills. It would be impossible to deal with the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by which the Government was embarking the nation on a course which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire. The latter was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire.

The Duke of Argyll in a speech at Glasgow
today admitted the sincerity of Mr. Gladstone.
He believed the Premier was misled by the
Parcellists when he received from the position
assumed by him before the House. He stated
that the Duke of Argyll's proposals as em-
bodied in the Home Rule and Land Purchase
Bills. It would be impossible to deal with
the Irish problem, namely, the Home Rule
and Land Purchase Bills, in any other way.
The former was a dangerous measure by
which the Government was embarking the
nation on a course which would lead to the
destruction of the British Empire. The latter
was a measure which would lead to the destruction of the British Empire.

JAMES BEATY'S THE BOY.
HE MAKES A MODERATE DEMAND FOR $675,000.

At Least Mr. Peck of New York Says He Does So.—Mr. Beaty has a question of $675,000.

OTAWA, April 21.—The Railway Commissioners, there was a very large attendance this morning as anticipated. The (Beaty) Woodworth disclosures were resumed.

Mr. Hector Langverin read a telegram from the Speaker of the Manitoba Legislature, reiterating the words of House proprietor and pointing out the injustice to the settlers if the work was not actively presented. The time had arrived when the charter and had great weight to be to be only an object of speculation, as it had been since 1881.

Mr. Beaty being called upon to speak, expressed regret that all the letters from the Speaker in connection with the work as well as to show the financial ability of the promoters had not yet arrived but were on the way here. It would be a pity if negotiations now progressing were broken off simply because the time for the extension of the first fifty miles would not be exceeded until next October. He spoke confidently of the ability of the promoters to complete the work.

Mr. Hector Langverin said they had waited fifteen days for the papers and were willing to grant Mr. Beaty a further extension of time to show the financial standing of the Company. But the road was a necessity, and if the Company was unable to carry it on others would be glad to take it over. Mr. Langverin said Mr. Watson was willing to give Mr.
Beaty time to show the good intentions of the American capitalists, and that the Company be allowed to utilize the old grading of the Rocky Mountain and Souris Road from Melbourne, the land grant he made to construct it.

Mr. Blake, while supporting the idea, suggested there were other matters to be considered.
Mr. Mitchell said the disclosures ought to be thoroughly investigated, and if proven the charter should be cancelled, and the grant given to another Company.
Mr. Woodworth expressed much laughter at the remarks of Mr. Mitchell, and said that he would not accept the proposition of Mr. Watson, who called himself "The Boy." Mr. Woodworth stated that the commissioners, passing after every sentence to introduce several complimentary but caustic remarks. The last remark was that April 11, contained a statement that the New York contractors with whom Mr. Beaty had been negotiating offered to build the road for all the bonds and twenty-five per cent of the capital stock. Mr. Beaty, however, refused to accept the proposition of "The Boy." He on the other hand agreed to award them the contract provided he received a bonus of $100,000 and a total of $675,000. This proposition was the last statement, rejected at the time. Further statements regarding the contract were made by Mr. Beaty, who stated that he had not yet received the money, and that he had not yet received the money, and that he had not yet received the money.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LIVERPOOL, April 21.—Coming up the waters of the Oregon in connection with the evidence taken by the Board of Trade Commissioners, the Oregon traded solemnly decision that the Oregon founded solely because the bulkhead door failed to close.
Council for the Board of Trade, in his argument, admitted that the evidence adduced at the hearing had dispelled many false rumors regarding the sinking of the vessel, and stated that in his opinion it was proved conclusively that a collision with the steamer. In conclusion he asked the Court to say whether a proper logbook will be delivered to-morrow.

A Most Curious House Found DUBLIN, April 21.—It has just become publicly known that a missing Chapter House, which was buried during the fire in the thirteenth century, has been discovered by some workmen who were excavating underneath Christ Church Cathedral.
In the Chapter House were beautifully carved ceilings, columns and other architecture. The discovery, although made last Friday, was not divulged until a sensational article in the "Daily Express" was published. The Lord Mayor, the clergy and prominent officials and citizens have inspected the excavated articles.

Albany Will Open the Session LONDON, April 21.—Albany will open the session of the House of Commons on Monday next. The session will be held in the House of Commons and will begin with the reading of the Queen's speech. The session will be held in the House of Commons and will begin with the reading of the Queen's speech.

Elegant French Dress Goods in all the new shades at wonderful prices at the Bon Marche.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and the smaller buildings within the Palace enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the walled city has been destroyed. The troops pursued and captured several of the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English military officer, was killed. A number of conspirators took refuge in the city with 300 of the Prince's followers, many of whom were killed, and many were wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

DIED IN THREE WEEKS.
Two Prisoners in the Lockup at Cornwall Hull, Ont., April 21.—Early this morning a fire was discovered in the lower portion of the Town Hall. The cause was the friction of the steam engine, which is also caretaker of the hall and lives near by, endeavoring to get at the cells, where two men were confined. The torrent of smoke that rushed out prevented his escape. With great difficulty some men made their way to the cells and got out the body of a man named John O'Leary. The other man in the cells was a French laborer named John Lewis, and his body was not extricated for fully an hour afterwards, when it was nearly cooked.
The fire was put out after it had been burning about two hours. It is supposed to have been started by one of the prisoners smoking in the cells, as they were not searched previous to being placed there.
There was no watching in the lockup.
The cause of the fire was not ascertained.
The fire was a complete wreck, the main hall being badly damaged by water and smoke, but the insurance is payable to all.

An Appropriate Name Suggested MONTREAL, April 21.—Alfred J. M. Levesque, arrived in New York on a charge of seducing Annie Proctor of this city, was formerly a partner in the firm of Levesque, Proctor & Co., and after being banished to the United States, he settled in New York. The girl is a daughter of Harry Proctor of New York, and was formerly a partner in the firm of Levesque, Proctor & Co., and after being banished to the United States, he settled in New York. The girl is a daughter
of Harry Proctor of New York, and was
formerly a partner in the firm of Levesque, Proctor & Co., and after being banished to the United States, he settled in New York.

The Legislature Will Take It Up Quebec, April 21.—The P.P. for Three Rivers, just before the adjournment of the House this morning, gave notice of motion on the Bill concerning the American capitalists, which principle of the Rocky Mountain and Souris Road
from Melbourne, the land grant he
made to construct it.

For Bargains in Hosiery and Gloves don't fail to call at the Bon Marche.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace
enclosure. The main buildings of the Palace are unharmed. One-third of the
walled city has been destroyed. The
troops pursued and captured several of
the incendiaries. Mr. Devlin, English
military officer, was killed. A number
of conspirators took refuge in the city
with 300 of the Prince's followers, many
of whom were killed, and many were
wounded on both sides.

THE BURNESS FIRE
LONDON, April 21.—The Burness fire
has done a great deal of damage to the city. The fire started at 4 o'clock in the morning and spread rapidly. The fire destroyed the Treasury, Postoffice and
the smaller buildings within the Palace enclosure. The main