THE LOAN COMPANIES must return big dividends or else the stockholders would cry out against the managers. This sort of thing does not apply to lenders of private money in large amounts—who are more particularly than the class security than The interest—none the advantage of knowing the sources of money in private hands for investment, which knowledge we have gained by years of special attention to this branch of our business. Barrowers of large loans can save time and money by applying at first to us. R. J. GRIFFITH & CO., 16 King-street ear
