The mistress of this kitchen says that by organizing her household carefully fewer, not more, servants are required. A "lift" is worked at stated ntervals by the man who manages the furnace; everything not taken up to the kitchen on these occasions is sent up on a dumb waiter. A servants' stairmay is prettily screened off by an, arrangement of spindles. The clothes are fixed on the top of the house; and in a cold room above the kitchen the meets are hung and the perishable

Now, here is a case in point: My family consists, besides our parents, of two boys and four girls.

The oldest is a boy; then three girls. The oldest boy has boys and three girls. The oldest boy has been encouraged ever since he was a youngster in knte-trousers, with the idea that he was going to make a great success as a business man. He has a natural business gift, and if he is not spoiled meanwhile, will probably have quite a brilliant future. Next to him is a girl whose faculty for management and organization is infinitely superior to that of her brother; in fact, she coaches him in half his undertakings, and he finds her advice very well worth following.

THE FASHIONABLE KITCHEN.

The Jerusdas the Top of the House Georgeous Cocking Utensils.

Perfect ventilation says an architect who is authority on kitchens is the first consideration in such a room. Next comes light and possibilities of personal cleanliness. To get these in crowded city blook half buried in the ground is, of all things the most difficult. Something has been said in the elevation of the kitchen. In the account of elevators. One of the most significant indications is seen in the elevation of the kitchen. In the bouse of a physician on West Fifty-fifth sourse of a physician on West Fifty-fifth with tiled floor and wainscotting, Consecting with it is the servants' sitting room, and opening into it the kitchen.

One may well envy the cook her private dominion. The kitchen is a noble room, with windows that catch the first rays of the benigm majesty in the west. The view is fine for a hermore daylight here than the basement; titchen receives. There is also a considerable saving of time, as the raging of grash bilis—there is over an hour more daylight here than the basement titchen receives. Here the chef moves with a cherry table at his back, on one side the pot closet, in which his copper treasures are kept; on the other his dresser. This dresser has no other back than the enamelled tiles that cover the walls. This is a consideration in a city oversupplied with Croton bugs, which prefer to colonise in the seams of dressers that they pry open for that purpose. The floor is laid in grey and white encaustic tiles, and the walls are lined with cream enamelled tiles. The kitchen is done with a hose.

The kitchen in the grey Vanderbilt chateau is a thing of beauty. The floor is of marble, the tables, the sinks, the shelves and the things rarely moved are of marble. The walls are lined with cream-enamelled tiles, and all the angles are bound with brass. Where these meet the doors and windows thy are covered with metal mouldings, thus dispensing with the wooden trim. The celling is of white enamelled tiles laid in cement, and each tile is secured by a metal bolt. Over the large double range is a semi-circular hood enriched with embosed copper ornaments, and swung from iron bars whought in spiral foliations.

Henry A. King & Co., S13-915 Beard Trade. Toronto, Ont. McIntyre & Wardwell (John J. Dixon) received the following despatch from Schwartz, Dupee & Co., Chicago:
Dec. wheat ranged between 60%c and 61c, closing at 60%c. It was a small market, with the same character of trading that we have had of late. The sentiment is still bearish, and any increase in outside offerings will undoubtedly result in lower prices. The visible is expected to increase 2,000,000 bush. New York reported large purchases of Duluth and Manitoba wheat for shipment to the seaboard, bought at prices that will permit of its being delivered on Dec. contract. Rates through the winter wheat's territory would have decidedly weakening influence. There is nothing decidedly weakening influence. There is nothing decidedly buillish in the situation.

Corn steady. Lake freights lower, which permitted a large cash business to be done. Charters were reported for 350,000 bush. Provisions quite active, but the price changes were small, although the market was very_weak at times. Lard suffered most because of free selling of Oct. and Jan. by a leading packer. The buying of all articles was almost entirely the covering or scattering shorts, with a moderate profit. The situation still favors a dull, dragging market.
