

If You Are Well Bred.

You will try to make others happy. You will not be shy or self-conscious. You will never indulge in ill-natured gossip. You will never forget the respect due to age. You will think of others before you think of yourself. You will not swagger or boast of your achievements. You will not measure your civility by people's bank accounts. You will be scrupulous in your regard for the rights of others. In conversation you will not be argumentative or contradictory. You will not forget engagements, promises or obligations of any kind. You will not make fun of the peculiarities or idiosyncrasies of others. You will not bore people by constantly taking of yourself and your affairs. You will never under any circumstances cause another pain if you can help it. You will not think that "good intentions" compensate for rude or gruff manners.

The Cause of Sore Feet.

Examine them carefully and you'll probably find corns. Whether hard, soft or bleeding, apply Putnam's Corn Extractor. It's painless, it's sure, and above all quick to act. Insist on only "Putnam's."

Never Sure.

Just as we get comfortably settled down to believe something very thoroughly, something is sure to come along and try to upset us. Darwin was at first bitterly assailed, then his views were generally accepted, and now there are learned men who tell us that he was all wrong—"off his base," as it were: Dalton's atomic theory of matter was accepted as conclusive until radium was discovered and then we are told that there is no such thing as an atom or a molecule; just as people were beginning to enjoy the tomato—the old 'love apple,' the Lancet or somebody said that it caused cancer, and now that is laughed at; Galileo was threatened with pains and penalties for advancing the theory that the world was round and moved round the sun, and comparatively recently the late Professor Joansing, the learned negro astronomer, told us that he deserved to suffer, as he was all wrong, and the world is really flat. It is, however about what we should do for our health that we are upset the most. Not so long ago a consumptive was kept shut up in a room with little or no ventilation, as fresh air supposed to aggravate the disease. Then came a change to the opposite extreme, and fresh air the more and the colder the better, was guaranteed to alleviate and very likely to cure. Fresh air and sunlight were and are the panacea. Major Woodruff, however, surgeon of the United States army, now comes along to try to knock that theory on the head, so far, at least as sunlight is concerned. He declares indeed, that sunlight is positively harmful, and in the cause, in the South at least of degeneration and neurasthenia. Now, will the 'fresh air' theory have to go—and shall we be told by authority that washing is bad for the epidermis, and be warned not to overdo it, if not to leave it severely alone?

Anæmia

In every street of every Canadian town you will meet with anæmic girls and women! Look at the pale lips, the waxy complexion, the dark rings round the eyes, the springless carriage! Are you a sufferer? Anæmia means that the blood is deficient in red corpuscles—those minute bodies which carry oxygen and carry energy to all the organs. Bileans replenish those corpuscles. Bileans so act upon stomach, liver and intestines that every bit of food you take is transformed into nutriment. This is how they cure indigestion, cure anæmia, cure general debility. Assimilated nutriment alone can cure anæmia. Bileans ensure perfect assimilation. Prove them! Send 1c. stamp for trial box.

but nothing seemed able to give me back my lost strength. Such was my state when Bileans were brought to my notice. The first few doses of this herbal remedy relieved me somewhat, and a little perseverance with their use restored me to health. Bileans are a splendid remedy, and I cannot speak too highly of them.

Bileans are also a Cure for Indigestion, constipation, piles, female ailments and irregularities, liver chill, rheumatism, kidney disease, blood impurities, wind spasms, pains in the chest and between the shoulders, liver congestion, biliousness, sick headache, etc. Send one cent to the Bilean Co., Toronto, and free sample box will be mailed you. All druggists sell at 50c. a box, or post free from the Company upon receipt of price (6 boxes for $2.50).

Was Weak, Debilitated and Anæmic
Bileans Made Her Well

Miss E. Reed, of Kingston, (Ont.), has proved how to those run down, debilitated and anæmic, Bileans come as an unspeakable blessing. She says:—"I was ill, anæmic, my blood was impoverished, and I was altogether run down. My food did not seem to do me any good. I had pains in the chest, was nervous and miserable. I tried first one thing and then another,

INDIAN MYTHS.

One Accounts For the Custom of Scalping an Enemy.

Among the many myths of the North American Indian the disposition of the soul after its separation from the body and its close connection with the scalp varies according to the religion of the tribe. With some the journey to the "happy hunting grounds" begins immediately; with others the spirit remains near the grave. Again, if an Indian dies away from the lodges of his people the spirit returns at once to them, where it hovers as if reluctant to leave. Among the upper Missouri tribes it is believed that before the spirit finally departs from those who have died from wounds received in battle it floats toward a great cliff overhanging the Missouri and carves upon the wall of rock a picture showing the manner of death.

It is believed by most of the plains tribes that the soul attaches itself to the scalp; that the soul of a person scalped does not suffer from the wounds inflicted on the body, but that the opposite is the case where the scalp is not torn off.

An Indian who kills himself in battle, accidentally or purposely, has positively no hereafter. He is irrevocably lost. Those who are struck by lightning or die by any other apparently direct operation of the Great Spirit are hurriedly buried where they fell without ceremony, and no mound or mark is erected over them. If after a battle there are found corpses not scalped or mutilated it is positive evidence that such persons came to their death by their own hand, for it is a tenet of the Indian religion not to scalp or mutilate the body of an enemy who commits suicide.

Women of Ancient Rome.

"We are assured by Seneca," says the historian Inge, "that there were women in ancient Rome who counted their ages not by their years, but by the husbands they had had. Juvenal tells of one woman who had married eight husbands in five years. Divorce was granted on the slightest pretext. Many separated merely from love of change, disdaining to give any reason, like Æmilius Paulus, who told his friends that 'he knew best where his shoes pinched him.' Rich wives were not much sought after by wise men. Their complete emancipation made them difficult to manage. Accordingly, since both rich and poor wives were objectionable, the large majority of men never married at all. In most cases a Roman bridegroom knew practically nothing of his wife's character until after marriage. Marriage for the Roman woman meant a transition from rigid seclusion to almost unbounded liberty. She appeared as a matter of course at her husband's table whether he had company or not. She could go where she liked, either to the temples of Isis and Serapis or to the circus and amphitheater. She had her own troops of slaves, over whom she ruled without interference."
