EXTRACTS FROM LATE ENGLISH PAPERS

SPEECH AT THE PROROGATION OF THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

The Chancellor presented Her Majesty with the royal speech; and the Queen, with a precision of articulation which permitted every word to be heard to the remotest corner of the building, delivered the speech as follows:

"MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

"I have the satisfaction of being able to release you from the duties of a laborious session. The assiduity and care with which you have applied your-solves to the business which required your attention merit my cordial approbation.

"The act for the better government of my Australian colonies will, I trust, improve the condition of those rising communities. It will always be gratifying to me to be able to extend the advantages of representing institutions, which form the glory and happiness of my people, to colonies inhabited by men who are capable of exercising, with benefit to themselves, the privileges of country. It is, I trust, calculated to promote the welfare of every class connected with this essential branch of the national interest.

"The Act for the gradual discontinuance of Interments within the Limits of the Metropolis is in conformity with those enlightened views which have for their object the improvement of the public health. I shall watch with interest the progress of measures relating to this important subject.

"I have given my cordial assent to the Act for the Extension of the Elective Franchise in Ireland. I look to the most beneficial consequences from a measure which has been framed with a view to give my people in Ireland a fair participation in the benefits of our representative system.

"I have observed, with the greatest interest and satisfaction, the measures which have been adopted with a view to the improvement of the administration of justice in various depart-ments, and I confidently anticipate they will be productive of much public convenience and advantage.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS,

"The improvement of the revenue, and the branches of expenditure, have tended to give our financial condition stability and security. I am happy to find that you have been enabled to relieve my subjects from some of the burdens of taxation, without impairing the sufficiency of our resources to meet the charges imposed upon them.

"MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

"I am encouraged to hope that the treaty between Germany and Denmark, which has been concluded at Berlin under my mediation, may lead, at no distant period, to the restoration of peace in the North of Europe. No endeavor shall be wanting on my part to secure the attainment of this

"I continue to maintain the most friendly re lations with foreign powers, and I trust that nothing may occur to disturb the general peace.

"I have reason to be thankful for the loyalty and attachment of my people; and while I am studious to preserve and improve our institutions, I rely upon the goodness of Almighty God to favor my efforts, and to giude the destinies of this nation."

The Chancellor then received back the Speech, and with it an intimation from Her Majesty, in accordance with which he announced that Parliament was prorouged until the 15th of October.

Her Majesty then retired, and in a few minutes the thunder of guns announced to London that the session of 1850 was over.

, House of Commons -- Thursday August 15 .- After some proceedings of slight interest, IMr Labouchere, in answer to Mr Pinney, stated that the report of the Committee on the subject of Suaday Pest-office legislation, recommended a return to the old system of Sunday delivery, and he confidently expected that the Treasury would order the recommendations of that report to be carried into effect, and (he afterwards remarked) with no unnecessary

The Speaker was subsequently summoned to hear the Royal Speech in the House of Lords; and on his return to the right hon, gentlemen read her Majesty's Speech the members present, who then took a farewell of him and retired. And so the session ended.
