dropped the little birthday sacks, containing the secret of the number of their untold and unguessed years in cents. The gross result of these contributions was $147.26 for the treasury of the hospital.

Some of the poetic feelings of the contributors have been preserved and are presented here.

We send you two dollars, Which turned into cents, For the use of the Hospital. And not money lent, Represents our joint ages. With a few more or less. But what sum may be We are sure you can't guess.

Yet we hope it will aid To your party's result : So pray, like Lord Pooh-Bah, Accept this insult.

You ask me for cents. So I send you a store Of one for each year, And just a few more.

May the Hospital prosper, We all gladly say While wishing sincerely Happy returns of this day.

If I were as old as Methusalum To your birth-day party I'd surely come; But being one hundred and one, My family say I must stay to hum.

"Ninety-one years old," was the suggestive accompaniment to one envelope.

"Charles Alexander, 82 years," was another; and he is so fresh and strong there seems no reason why he should not add another score to it.

"Going on one hundre l," was another

 At the close of the musical programme it was moved by Dr. H. M. Patton, and seconded by Mr. E. G. O'Connor, that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered Mr. and Mrs. Bell for their kind hospitality, the ladies and gentlemen who had so kindly contributed the musical programme, and the ladies of the committee for their efforts to make the evening pleasant to all. This was received with much applause and unanimously ear-
