POLICIES ISSUED ON ALL APPROVED PLANS

A prominent business man in the East had occasion to take out an Endowment Policy for his son. An Agent of The Great-West Life Assurance Company was one of the several insurance men competing for the business, and was told that his proposal would be considered with the others, and the best accepted.

A few days afterwards the Great-West Agent was called in to complete the application, the prospect remarking—"I find yours the best of all the Policies I have inspected."

There is scarcely an active Great-West Agent but has had similar experience time and time again.

The Company has a few good districts available for the right men.
