

overstated. On our ability to secure our markets, and to compete in them, will hang our standard of living, the number of jobs we can provide, and what kind of jobs they will be. We live in a rapidly changing world. Can we keep up with the changes? I am convinced that we can. But to keep up, we must work together. And together, we must decide how best to meet the challenges we face.

Thank you.