

Improving Asian language skills and awareness to allow Canadian businesses to deal more effectively with opportunities in the region.

A major focus of the Pacific Basin represents a wide range of opportunities for Canadian business development in Asia. The Pacific Basin is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population. Mr. Hawke has been instrumental in developing a Pacific Basin Working Group as a result of this trend, to ensure that Asian nations have access to a sufficiently large market for Canadian goods and services.

A major focus of the Pacific Basin Working Group is to ensure that Canadian businesses have access to a sufficiently large market for Canadian goods and services. This group is currently working on a number of projects, including a Pacific Basin Working Group meeting held in Canada during the last week of November, 1988, was attended by a number of Asian business leaders to discuss the potential. These were Australia, Canada, Japan, New Zealand, South Korea, the United States, and the six members of ASEAN.

This group is currently working on a number of projects, including a Pacific Basin Working Group meeting held in Canada during the last week of November, 1988, was attended by a number of Asian business leaders to discuss the potential. These were Australia, Canada, Japan, New Zealand, South Korea, the United States, and the six members of ASEAN.

The role of the group should be placed on a successful completion of the Uruguay Round, that the role of the group should be complementary to the AFTA, and that the Pacific Basin Working Group is currently working on a number of projects, including a Pacific Basin Working Group meeting held in Canada during the last week of November, 1988, was attended by a number of Asian business leaders to discuss the potential. These were Australia, Canada, Japan, New Zealand, South Korea, the United States, and the six members of ASEAN.

Asia-Pacific history of success in the Asia-Pacific region. Japan has had a long history of success in the Asia-Pacific region, primarily in assembly and electronics. Japan and Korea, primarily in assembly and electronics, have been successful in the Asia-Pacific region, primarily in assembly and electronics. The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population. The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population.

The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population. The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population. The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population.

The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population. The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population. The Asia-Pacific region is a rapidly growing region with a large and diverse population.