

calling perhaps at Fredericton & St. John (I have seen Quebec, but not the Maritime Provinces).

Would it be possible for me to lecture on the 19th? Or would lectures on two consecutive days be tiresome?

It would probably be just possible for me to double back from Syracuse, lecture at Montreal on the 10th, & go on to Toronto.
But I am most reluctant to commit myself to this, especially as I expect to be rather tired by then & I get little rest in a train.
Do you not think yourself that it would be unwise?

So that, if the 19th is impossible, I expect probably just to come to Montreal & see something of McGill & yourself & my old friend, and Charles, & pass on without lecturing.
