

tions, not from any inclination of the petitioners to innovate, but as objects which they believed would conduce to their security and happiness.

F I N I S.