or other of her colonies; whence we may fairly argue their prodigious importance.

This colony, as a part of the king's dominions, is subject to the control of the British parliament, but its more immediate government is vested in a governor, council, and general assembly.

The governors in chief, who are always appointed by the king's commission under the great seal of Great-Britain, enjoy a vast plenitude of power, as may be seen in their patents, which are nearly the fame.

The instructions received with the commisfion, are explanatory of the patent, and regulate the governor's conduct on almost every common centingency.

The falary generally granted to the governor by the instructions is 1200 l. sterling out of the revenues here; but that being an manificient fund, the assembly, in lieu of it, give him annually 1560 l. currency. The perquisites perhaps amount to as much more.

This office was formerly very lucrative, but becomes daily less considerable, because almost all the valuable tracts of lands are already taken un.

News

a free

Since

ning

what

wing

they

eriods.

id the

inclo

and of

d they

Provi-

treffed

ad but

they

k, and

r.own

was at

ca and

narket

were

ought,

ft part

fettle-

ne one

The council, when full, consists of twelve members appointed by the king's mandamus and fign manual. All their privileges and powers are contained in the instructions. They are a privy council to the governor, in acts of tivil government; and take the same oath administered to the king's council in England. The tenure of their places is extremely precarious, and yet their influence upon the public measures very considerable. In the grant of all

patents