A BATH IN ELECTRICITY.

The Latest Brilliant Idea to Make Bathing a Sybaritic Dream.

Of all the wonders of electricity the electric light bath, which is about to be introduced, has peculiar qualities of attractiveness.

In a marvelous room, which looks more like a page from the "Arabian Nights" than anything ordinary, the bather will recline on a couch of plate glass, while incandescent lamps will glow like weird, luminous insects, whose radiance will be reflected from the floor, the walls, the ceiling, and the bath itself, so that the bather will be surrounded by a sea of light, in which the electric light bather may see himself reflected from every possible position. But the occupant of this novel bath room will not be a modern Narcissus, for the mirrors are but to lend efficacy to the bath by reflecting the light.

Marvelous as it may seem, the electric light bath is not an visionary idea for its inventor, John Harvey Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Mich., has not only patented this idea, and constructed a private bath house, but is now making arrangements to place the new bath houses in this city, as well as in the principal cities of the country.

The interior arrangement of the new electric light bath is a cabinet, with sides, ceiling, and floor constructed entirely of mirrors. Penetrating these reflecting linings at every foot of their surface are innumerable electric lamps that flood the apartment with a pure and limpid light. By arrangement of the lamps the light from them is reflected by another series of mirrors in the center of the room, close beside which the bather lies on a couch.

This is like no couch that has ever seen. It is an oddity, made from a design that took years of thought and experiment to perfect. It is supported by tall legs of oak, and provided with a heavy glass top, on which the bather rests. Beneath this top, fitted in the lower woodwork of the couch, are 100 more electric lamps, so set that their light directly strikes the bather's body from beneath. In this room of heat, light, reflection and refraction, nothing is left to chance. The innumerable lamps are so fixed that there is not a particle of the light or heat but what is utilized. Where some of the reflections fall to reach the body of the bather on the first radiation, they continue to reflect from mirror to mirror, until the couch is finally reached.

By this peculiar arrangement of light and heat conveyed to the bather in such quantity that every pinpoint of his flesh receives an equal amount of perspiration is induced at a much lower temperature than is possible either by a Turkish or Russian bath.

The effect on the skin, too, is powerful, and the carbonic acid of the skin is eliminated, which is not the case in a Turkish or Russian bath. Perspiration is induced in four minutes with a temperature of 80 degrees Fahrenheit, whereas in a Turkish or Russian bath it takes ten minutes to induce perspiration in the Turkish bath there must be a temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit for five and a half minutes. Notwithstanding that the temperature of the room is much lower by the light bath, the surface and internal temperature of the bather at the time perspiration begins is one degree higher than when undergoing the Turkish treatment.

The bath of light is also superior to either the Russian or Turkish bath in the matter of elimination of carbonic acid from the skin. Up to 5 per cent is the average for the light bath, while with the Turkish bath the highest percentage is 4.07, and with the Russian bath 3.96.—New York Journal.

WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Distress in the Back—Disturbed Sleep—Cured by Two Boxes of Dodd's.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—There has occurred here another instance of the wisdom of using Dodd's Kidney Pills in any case of suspected kidney trouble, promptly, at the outset. This was in the case of Mr. A. E. Ferguson, who on being interviewed, said: "I had been suffering for some time with distress in the back, nervousness and disturbed sleep. By reading in the paper one of the particulars of a cure very much like my own, I decided to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and procured one box. Before taking the first box I continued taking until I had used two boxes, with the happy result of a perfect cure."

Humility is not a cloak, but a character. SLEEPLESSNESS is due to nervous excitement. The delicately constituted, the financier, the business man, and those whose occupation necessitates great mental strain or worry, all suffer less or more from it. Sleep is the great restorer of a worn brain, and to get sleep cleanse the stomach from all impurities with a few doses of Parmentier's Vegetable Pills, gelatine-coated, containing no mercury, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money will be refunded.

The Fay Mysteries.

A Correspondent Who Thinks He Knows All About It.

A Visitor Who Witnessed the Fay Performance at the Grand Opera House.

A visitor who witnessed the Fay performances at the Grand Opera House supplies the following as an explanation of some of the feats performed by the lady:

"The first trick, the one in front of the cabinet, where Miss Fay is seated with two gentlemen is easily explained. The hands, flowers, etc., and playing on the guitar are manipulated by the lady's right hand. Her right arm is entirely free, but this cannot be detected from the auditorium, as the three persons in front of the cabinet are covered right up to their chins. The gentleman sitting at Miss Fay's right does not hold her hands with his left. He places her hands on his, and while his attention is being drawn off momentarily her right hand is removed, and when the performance is over, the right hand is again placed gently back on the gentleman's hand.

"The second trick is a little more mysterious, but is as easily explained. The tying and tacking are perfectly done. Miss Fay is certainly securely fastened to her seat, and she is not free herself without the aid of a knife or pair of scissors, which she concealed in the back part of her dress, and with which she releases the right hand with the left by cutting the cotton band between the knot on her wrist and the iron ring. Her right hand is then free, and the rest is easy. Her fingers are free to use knife or scissors, or her hands, including her thumbs, and she will be powerless.

"The hand on the table, and the handkerchief are worked with a very fine thread from the ceiling. The tables may also be manipulated in the same manner. The mind reading is quite as easily explained, but I must not trespass too much on your space. I do not write with a view of injuring Miss Fay's business to the smallest degree, but merely to express my opinion as to how some of the mysterious tricks are done."

Women Workers.

The Case of Mrs. Large, Late Japanese Missionary, Still Pending.

Revelations of Degradation Among British Columbia Indians.

At Brampton yesterday the second day's session of the Methodist Women's Missionary Society was held.

Two letters were read from Mrs. Large, a returned missionary from Japan, asking that definite and positive action be taken in reference to her relations to the work in Japan.

Enclosing a certificate of good health. There was also read another letter from Mrs. Large calling attention to the action of the executive in reference to her salary, and claiming that as she was not on furlough in the ordinary sense she was entitled to full salary, and not merely to the three-quarter salary allowed missionaries on furlough.

On motion of Mrs. Strachan, seconded by Miss Hawley, it was decided to send two more missionaries to Japan, and also to undertake work in Fukui.

Rev. Mr. Riley, missionary at Kitami, Borneo, spoke most eloquently of the degradation and sufferings of women and girls among the barbarous Indians there. So hard was their lot, he said, that it was even yet a common thing for mothers to destroy their female infants in order that the little ones might not grow up to lead a miserable existence, despised by their fathers, ill-treated by their husbands, and the victims of every kind of hardship. He and Mrs. Riley had cared for 25 to 30 children in a time, and the results were most encouraging. This mission gets a grant of $200 a year.

The hospital at Fort Simpson, B. C., was reported to be doing a good work.

TWO YEARS AT KINGSTON.

Walter Wilson, the Coat Thief, Sentenced to the Penitentiary—Other Cases.

Police Magistrate Parke had the unpleasant duty of passing a severe sentence upon another youthful prisoner. The offender was Walter Wilson, who stole two coats from Jerry McDonald's hotel last Saturday night.

Wilson pleaded for the clemency of the court, as his health was poor, and he had been troubled with hemorrhages ever since he was confined in jail. The magistrate said he sympathized with him in regard to his poor health, but he could not overlook this offense. He said he would not send him to the Central, but would sentence him to two years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

Thos. Cox, a bricklayer, brought an action against Samuel Turner for the recovery of $5 50, which he claimed as unpaid wages. Turner was ordered to pay, and the case was dismissed.

Kur-a-Kof, a drunk, was remanded for a week to sober up.

R. car shops, handed Inspector Plawton and Engineer Moore a marked check for $170 when the latter went to him yesterday to turn off the water used by the contractor, if the latter did not settle his bill. Mills has no idea of evading payment, but had merely sent for the check instead of replying at once to the board's communication.

THE SAVING LIBERALS.

The Young Liberals are rallying in force on Friday evening at the Odd-fellows' Block, to cast their votes for the candidates of their choice. The vice-presidents of the wards and the neighborhood of the executive committee are to be chosen. There are so many excellent men in the field that a man cannot make a mistake in voting for any of them.

TWO FIRES.

The building was almost gutted, and the damage amounted to about $300. While the men were on their way to the scene P. C. Campbell saw a blaze, and sent in an alarm from box 16. It is not known how the blaze originated.

The firemen were also called out about 5:45 last night. A chimney fire occurred at 186 Lichfield street. No damage.

A POINT FOR ASSESSORS.

At Osceola Hall, in Kerr vs. Town of Petrolia, the plaintiff wanted an injunction. He contends that the land he holds for farming purposes and for boring for coal oil should not be assessed and taxed for waterworks or construction of sewers, and lighting and watering the streets of the town. The plaintiff has not yet struck oil. The chancellor dismissed the motion, holding it not a proper case to grant an interim injunction to the disposition of plaintiff's rights at the trial.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The Board of Works and the Board of Health met tonight.

It is not probable that a stone pile will be provided this winter for those desiring employment. It would not be a profitable thing for the city, as stone may be broken much more cheaply by machinery than by hand. Last year the city expended $10,000 in relief, but with the prospects of much employment this winter on the sewers it is not likely that city relief work will be necessary. It would be a good idea to have a municipal wood-pile, to which able-bodied applicants could be referred by the inspector. For tramps especially it would be an excellent thing.

GRAND STAGE PRODUCTIONS.

The productions of "Faust" and "Richard III." which John Griffith, the young Canadian, will present during his engagement at the Grand Opera House, are said to outrank any former season's presentation of the former was the best London ever had; but this year it is pronounced by the press of Toronto and other cities to be the finest the young star has ever given. Of the mounting of the most elaborate with which the play was ever staged this side the water. "Faust" will be the most elaborate, and "Richard III." on Saturday evening.

ANNA EVA FAY.

Another large audience greeted Anna Eva Fay at the Grand Opera House last night, and was amused and puzzled. Miss Fay introduced a new feature—lifting a table with her hands pressed flatly upon the surface. The committee of the audience—Messrs. W. Sacret and C. Stockwell—examined her fingers and found no ring there, while a silk handkerchief was placed upon the table to test the strength of a staple being used. The cabinet manifestations were repeated, and the audience was very much amused. The "sommnolency" act brought out the usual number of questions—personal and public—in answer to one of the latter, Miss Fay replied that the Canadian Government would not be defeated at the next election. If her answer be not the inspiration of prophecy, it is at least a token that Miss Fay is a shrewd observer of public affairs. She has no immediate intention that Queen Victoria would reign less than one year. It is to be hoped that in this case she is mistaken. Miss Fay concludes her very successful engagement tonight.

WEDDING BELLS.

Ex-Ald. Pritchett Married—A Londoner Wedded at Byron.

Wedding bells rang out merrily Tuesday night at 16 Walnut street, London, West, the residence of the bride's mother, the occasion thereof being the marriage of Florence F., youngest daughter of the late John Pring, to ex-Ald. John G. Pritchett, of South London. The nuptial knot was tied to the entire satisfaction of all concerned by Rev. E. Clemens, pastor of the London West Methodist Church. The bride was supported by Miss Mary Hunt, of this city, and Miss Maude Boulton, of Brantford. Messrs. John Milne and Albert Hadfield acted as groomsmen, while El Pring and Gladys Legg, as maids of honor, completed a very charming picture. Next to every section of the province was represented in the large assemblage of guests present and a magnificent array of presents testified in an unmistakable manner to the popularity of the principals, who are both well and favorably known to Londoners. The happy couple took an early G. T. R. express for an extended wedding tour among eastern cities.

A pleasant time was spent at the residence of Mr. James Dawson, Byron, when his eldest daughter, Emma, was married to Mr. R. S. Sogars, of this city, an employee of D. S. Perrin & Co. The bride was dressed in cream and carried a bouquet of cream roses. She was attended by Miss Bartlett, of London, who also carried a fine bouquet of cardinal roses. The groomsmen were Mr. Bert Dawson, of London, and Mr. W. Woodman, of London. The bridesmaids were present. Rev. J. A. Ferguson, of Hamilton Road Methodist Church, officiated.

The Latest Married—One-d never heard of such trouble as I have had with my servants. They are so stupid. The Experienced One—Don't talk to me. The other day I sent Patrick out for two egg plants. He came back with two hens!

Why should we quarrel with our existence, here as it lies before us, our field and inheritance, to make or to mar, for better or for worse, in which, too, so many noblest men have, even from the beginning, warring with the very evils we war with, both made and been what will be venerated to all time.—Carlyle.

Mrs. Celeste Coon, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "For years I could not eat many kinds of food without producing a burning, excruciating pain in my stomach. I took Parmentier's Pills according to directions under the head of 'Dyspepsia or Indigestion.' One box entirely cured me. I can now eat anything I choose without distressing me in the least." These pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required.
