THE DREAMER.

(By Theodosia Garrison.)
The spires passed her little gate—
She stooped her head to see—
A brown-faced pair who walked the road
Free as the wind is free;
And suddenly her little room
A prison seemed to be.
Her shining plates against the walls,
Her sunlit, sandal floor,
The brass-bound wedding-chest that held
Her linen's snowy store,
The very wheel whose humming died—
Seemed only chains she bore.

She watched the foot-ferees pass;
She never knew or guessed
The wistful dream that drew them there—
The longing in each breast—
Some day to know a house like hers,
Wherein their hearts might rest.
