DEPEND ON THE FOREST.

Wood Chemistry Provides Clothes, Medicines and Many Other Things.

"A lady's clothes, from head to toe, from braided hat to silken hose, are now composed of cellulose," rhymed Dr. Louis E. Wise, head of the department of chemistry, Syracuse University, in a lecture delivered recently before the class in freshman chemistry. The exhibits, comprising a variety of materials for wearing apparel, from neckties, shirts, plush goods, hat fabrics and silks to hosiery, all wholly made from wood, were on display, suggested the wide field opened up by these engaged in research along the lines of chemical utilization of wood.

"When a man writes his name," said Dr. Wise, "reads his paper, puts on his shirt, his near-silk socks, his necktie, his shoes, his black suit, when he smokes his pipe, when he takes aspirin or quinine or when he takes acetanilid for a headache, when he goes hunting or to the movies, when he plays a phonograph record, when he uses his radio, when he lights his pipe, cats his sausage—he comes into contact directly or indirectly with the chemical utilization of the forest. The chemistry of the forest—the chemical utilization of wood, whether we know it or not, is part and parcel of our daily existence.

"The discovery of new uses for wood is keeping ahead of the discovery of substitutes for wood, which makes it important for the government to adopt some policy that will provide for the scientific handling of this great and rapidly diminishing natural resource."

Squads of detectives, inspectors and guards of the C. P. R., the C. N. R., and the city are out in force this year to prevent the cases of theft from the forests which were so rife last winter. Some of the men may be formed into motor boat patrols if necessary to prevent theft by water.

Excise Enforcement Officer Walter P. Dawes, of this city, accompanied by Inspector Amos Belliveau, seized a still at McDougall's Settlement, near the Kent County line, on Tuesday and brought the owner, a man named Goguen, into court at Buctouche, where he was fined $200. Another raid was made this week by Sub-Inspector A. G. Yonnet, of Shediac, who single-handedly seized a still near Wisner Settlement, about twelve miles from Moncton, and brought the moonshiner into Sunny Brae, where he too was fined $200.

EXAMPLES FOR CANADA.

Value of Co-operative Marketing Explained by Hon. Manning Doherty.

(Toronto Telegram.)

The weekly luncheon of the Knights of Columbus, held this afternoon in the Carleton Hotel, was addressed on the subject of "Co-operative Marketing of Farm Products," by Hon. Manning Doherty, Provincial Minister of Agriculture.

"Co-operative marketing was being adopted by the world over," said the speaker. By means of this business principle, applied to farming, as it is applied to all successful affairs, great strides had been made by agricultural lands, of secondary importance before they adopted the system. The success of Ireland and Denmark could be traced to systematic production and marketing. Canada, on the other hand, dumps her produce on the market without the benefit of grading or of organized salesmanship.

Only by creating a surplus of exports over imports can Canada hope to pay off her great national commitments, said Mr. Doherty. He did not hesitate to say that every obligation would be met, but pointed to increased production in agriculture as the only logical way to raise the wind. Ontario is leading ground in the fruit markets, to British Columbia, and even Washington and Oregon, largely through the more aggressive marketing systems adopted in the west.
