HE SAYS HEIRESS PROPOSED TO HIM. Dr. Wilson, Negro, Sets Up Counter Claim in Reply to Wife's Suit for Realty.

New York, Dec. 22—Papers in the Supreme Court recently allege that the former Lelia Walker, only daughter of Mrs. Sarah Ann Walker, also known as Mrs. C. J. Walker, a negro, who died May 23, 1919, leaving an estate of more than $1,000,000 obtained largely by the sale of a preparation to take the kinks out of negroes' hair, induced Wiley M. Wilson, also a negro, now a practicing physician at 200 West 128th Street, to marry her on June 4, 1919.

The statement was made in an answer by Dr. Wilson to a suit by his wife to be declared owner of the property in which her husband now lives.

At the southwest corner of Seventh Avenue and 138 street, on the ground that he bought the property in his own name with her money and now retains it. It was stated yesterday that the Wilsons separated last Winter, when Mrs. Wilson took a trip abroad, and that she has lived most of the time since in the husband's extensive country place, the Villa Levaro, at Irvington.

In his answer Dr. Wilson alleged he was entitled to ownership of the property used for, and made counter-claims for the property at 108 to 110 West 138th Street, which he asked to have turned over to him free of a mortgage for $15,000, with $10,000 additional to remodel the building into a private sanitarium. He said he was an interne in the Freedmen's Hospital at Washington, D. C., when Lelia Walker proposed marriage to him. He said he intended to practice medicine in Washington, but that the plaintiff, to induce him to wed her, told him her mother had left $1,000,000 and that if he would marry her and come to New York and get a license to practice here, she would advance him the necessary funds during their married life "so that the defendant might adequately maintain himself in a position and in a manner compatible with that of the husband of the plaintiff" as a woman of wealth.
