even his best friends admit this. He is happy and cheerful, jolly and obliging, essed of a fairly large share of ity when he applies himself. But it ist not be expected that his appoint ment means a revolution in the agriural department. The change is made chiefly for the purpose of giving Mr. Hubbard a steady job, and thus relieving the Government from the reeponsibility of continually looking up new appointments for him.

ORIENTAL IMMIGRATION.

A few new ideas on the subject Asiatic immigration were expressed by But in such undetermined state. Mr. W. Almont Gates, secretary of the Californian State Board of Charities Anon she rises up and yells and Correction, during the recent conference in Buffalo. Mr. Gates declared, and asserted that he was prepared to back his words with proof that Chinese and Japanese emigration to America is worked up principally by cies on both side of the Pacific. Like many other Californians, Mr. Gates is strongly opposed to the admission of Orientals, and while it may be believed that this personal prejudice influences his remarks, still his reasoning along certain lines is apparently sound. What he has said applies in some measure to Canada as well as to the United finally a poll was demanded, and upon it being taken the recommendation was endorsed by nearly two to one.

The third section of the report dealing with the policy of reduction of armaments met with a sudden end. The committee recommended that the objective of international and national councils in this matter should be the reduction of armies and navies to a police footing.

Dr. Alexandra Skoglund moved that the report should not be received, seconded by Miss Derrick, Montreal, and the resolution was carried.

With regard to the failure of the committee to bring these important matters before the executive, Mrs. May Wright Sewell pointed out that under the present system it was im-possible to do so. It was, therefore, decided that in future the committee's report should be drawn up and sent to the various National Councils before he quinquennial meeting.
