DOES A WOMAN, HER FATHER OR HER HUSBAND OWE FOR WHAT SHE GOT PREVIOUS TO HER MARRIAGE? This is a question that is often brought before families, if not into the courts, but I have just read of a case where it did reach the domain of the law and some of the facts brought out were these; It is a common mistake to think that a man is responsible for his children's debts erely because they are living with entirely in error. The father would be trader and say, "Make my daughter a the necessary diploma, unless he is in certain persons to give up the whole his wife may have contracted before marriage, unless he obtained money with her, and then he would be liable only to the amount of the money received.
