or smaller vessels of them. Small headings are economically manufactured in that way.

Occasionally defective staves and headings are made into dowels. Basket makers save the cores from which veneer has been cut and saw them into thin slices for baskets and crate covers.

Brush manufacturers have made some headway in using waste from furniture factories, but the pieces are of so many sizes and of such irregular shape that success has been only partial.

A small porch chair shop has been able to draw a considerable part of its raw material from the waste of boat factories.

Some of the makers on interior finish work their odds and ends of soft woods into small boxes and the hardwood scraps are made into parquet flooring. Planing mills work scraps and broken pieces, unsalable in that form, into boxes for apples, medicines and other articles and into brackets, balusters, rose blocks and small quarter round moulding.

Portugal Afraid of ##### Royalist Attack

Lisbon, via the Frontier, Sept. 11 With a desire to know the exact strength of the positions and intentions sent Luz D'Almeida, chief of the Carbonarios, a secret political society, to the frontier to make a thorough investigation. A report from this official has been received. He says that the royalists now concentrated in the neighborhood of Orense are preparing slowly to advance. They number from 4,000 to 5,000 comprising infantry, cavalry and artillery. They have about 40 pieces of artillery for the most part quick firers. They also have two aeroplanes which are constantly flying over the camps of the soldiers of the republic and especially at Chaves, and troops and the inhabitants are in constant fear that they may drop bombs. The delay in the attack is due to the monarchists lack of funds, says the chief but they are expecting the arrival from Brazil and England within a few days of money to the amount of $2,500,000. Almeida is of the opinion that unless something extraordinary happens the monarchist invasion will take place within a week. The monarchists count on part of the republican troops going over to them as soon as hostilities are opened, but according to the best reports this seems to be a mistake for apparently the whole 22,000 republican troops lining the frontier are loyal to the new regime and intent to kill without quarter in order to avoid a civil war between the north and the south.

There is no doubt that a great part of population of the north will rise in support of the royalists, who, however, are badly armed, and the belief here at least is that they would soon be defeated.

The whole country is awaiting results with anxious expectations. A serious conspiracy has been discovered in the Lisbon state prison. In the last few sentences have noticed that visitors to the 800 royalists incarcerated in this prison invariably carried packages. Yesterday a search was made and it was discovered that the royalist prisoners were armed with revolvers. It was ascertained also that the prisoners intended to murder the guards, as soon as the monarchists in the north entered Portugal and start a revolution in the capital. The guards have been considerably strengthened.

Her Fine Descriptive Powers.

"If there is anything I am proud of," said Emma Weyler, the actress, it is descriptive powers of my sex. Once, when I was playing in Pittsburgh, my best chum went out to inspect some locomotive works, and here is how she described it when she got home: 'You pour,' she said, 'a lot of sand into a lot of boxes, and you throw oil stove lids and things into a furnace, and then you empty the molten stream into a hole in the sand and everybody yells and sweats. Then you pour it out, let it cool and pound it. Then you screw it together, and paint it, and put steam in and it goes splendidly, and they take it to a drafting room and make blue print of it. But one thing I forgot—they have to make a boiler. One man gets inside and one gets outside, and they pound fruitfully, and then they tie it to the other thing, and you ought to see it go!'"

Two Ribs Broken.

Several people saw him slip on a wet step and fall. Partly extorting himself from his umbrella he set up such a wail of distress that everyone in hearing ran to his assistance regardless of the drizzling rain.

"Are you hurt?" asked a chorus of voices.

"Anything broken?" demanded another.

"Only two ribs," he muttered in tones of deep anguish as he wiped his bleared face on his sleeve.

Helping him up a kind man dragged him into a drug store. One thoughtful person suggested a glass of brandy; another, more generous, said there were

"Oh," he replied, getting on his feet and moving toward the door. "Dey was de ribs in me umbrella."

Col. Green Much Sought In Marriage

New York, Sept.—The world's record, for proposals of marriage received, not given, probably will be conceded to Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green the world's richest woman, for it was learned to-day that within the last few months he has received 6,242 such offers. Not long ago Col. Green, who is forty years old, and a jovial bachelor, remarked good naturedly to a reporter: "When I find the right girl, I will marry her if she will have me." Now he wishes he had kept still for women who would like to share his name and his wealth are writ-

Berlin, Sept. 9 Continued uncertainty of belief as to the outcome of the prolonged France-German conversations, added to bad crop prospects and the weakness of Wall Street, has caused considerable depression on the Bourse. There is an increased number of runs on saving banks in various cities of Germany notably in Koenigsberg.-EX.
