FOREST HILL FARMER FACES MURDER TRIAL

Ezekiel Berry Pleads Not Guilty to Charge of Killing His Wife.

WITNESSES RECALL STORY OF THE DAY

Much of the Evidence in First Day a Repetition of the Preliminary.

Witness and his wife went over to the Berry home and the accused asked Mrs. Prosser to stay and pacify Olive, daughter, who had been crying all night about her mother being away. Witness said, "I started to go down to the pool; when I arrived at the accused's home there was one set of moose tracks from the accused's home to the pool. Accused was wearing moose tracks that morning. The moose tracks crossed the culvert. I also saw some tracks on the culvert. The first boot tracks were about a foot from the culvert. The last boot tracks were on the end of the culvert. The moose tracks made a complete circle of the pool and back into the pool. The moose tracks around the pool was one continuous line of tracks. No Signs of Body.

"There was nothing to indicate that there had been any body in the pool; the surface of the snow was not broken. There was an old log lying in the pool but that I saw was no evidence of any tracks leading into the pool. When I came from the pool, I went to the accused's house. I saw the body of Mrs. Berry lying on the chairs. I noticed two raised or swollen marks and white on top on the left side of her throat and considerable discoloration near her right ear and marks on the side of her throat from which blood was oozing."

"When I came out of the house," witness said, "the accused was in the house barn and he began to tell me what he had done that morning. He got up about 6 o'clock and went down to the old engine and saw something in the pool. He could not tell whether it was a log or his wife. He then came back and cooked pancakes and got breakfast and went down to the pool and found his wife. He picked her up and brought her up as far as the engine and laid her down and called his son Winslow to bring the hand sled which he did and they brought her up to the house."

The witness stated that he asked the accused how and his wife had been getting along. Accused said that she was very cross when he came home and they had three quarrels. "I asked him if he had been drinking. He said he had drunk a quart bottle of whiskey the day he came home, between Rosignol and Bunyon Bannister, and threw the bottle away."

"I asked him if he was drunk and he said, 'No, he knew what he was doing.' Under cross examination Prosser adhered to his direct testimony except to explain that the accused had told him that the time he drank the bottle of whiskey was the week before his wife's death.

Other witnesses called by the prosecution this afternoon were Blanche Prosser, wife of Geo. Prosser the previous witness, Margaret Bannister, wife of Bunyon Bannister, and Robt. Snowball Colpitts. The evidence was practically the same as that given by these witnesses at the preliminary examination.

Mrs. Prosser's Evidence.
Mrs. Prosser corroborated the evidence of her husband in regard to Berry coming to their home on the morning of the tragedy and as to what the accused had said. She as well as the other witnesses told of seeing marks on the dead woman's throat, a scratch on her face and the right ear discolored. Witnesses corroborated each other as to the accused saying the night he left the house he had told his wife that she would have to be cut out or she would have to leave or he would. It is thought the case will be finished tomorrow.

Yarmouth Case Continues Friday

Evidence Being Heard in Charge Laid Against Mansfield Ross.

Page 3—Yarmouth Murder. ... Yarmouth, N. S., May 3.—Three testified at the session this morning of the preliminary examination into the charge against Mansfield Ross, the murderer of Geo. H. Perry, with which Mrs. Perry, the widow, is charged. After their testimony had been taken Stipendiary Magistrate Fellon remanded Ross until Saturday morning next at 11 o'clock.

The chief evidence this morning hinged upon the watch, watch fob and watch chain belonging to the late Captain Perry. Miss Elzior Perry, daughter of the murdered man and close friend of Mansfield Ross, who was the first witness, identified a watch chain produced by the Crown as having belonged to her father.

Identified a Watch.
She said she found it in a bureau drawer after her father's death. The witness also identified a watch fob, which the captain had received from the Sharples Separator Company, for which he was agent. Cross-examined by R. W. E. Leary, counsel for Ross, Miss Perry said that she had seen her father wear the fob and was positive that he had worn it for a month or more previous to the murder. The witness told Mr. Leary that she had not known where the watch chain was until she found it in the bureau drawer.

Wore the Watch.
Maud Earle, who was at the Nickerson house when Capt. Perry was there before returning to death at his door, was the next witness. She swore that the captain wore a watch chain that night; she could not swear that it was the same chain as that produced in court, but thought that it was similar. She did not notice any fob on the Captain's watch.

Cross-examined by counsel for the defence, Maud Earle said that she was at the Nickerson house all evening. She had taken no notice of the appearance of the Perry house when she passed by. Capt. Perry departed from the Nickerson house before she did. She was sure that he had a watch chain on. She thought it was a heavy gold chain. The next witness, Theodore Borgstrom, who died in the year 1920, advocated and practiced the modern aseptic treatment of wounds nearly 600 years before it was re-discovered by Lord Lister and applied by modern surgeons.

UNITED STATES' PRESS PRICKS ANNOY LONDON

Lord Northcliffe Declares British Press Not So Great Offenders as American.

IRISH QUESTION CHIEF TROUBLE

Great Britain Offers Generous Terms, He Declares, and Independence Impossible.

London, May 3.—Lord Northcliffe, speaking before the representatives of the United States Dry Goods Association who are visiting this country at a dinner in their honor tonight declared that misunderstandings between Britain and the United States are due largely to pin pricks in the United States press and should be cleared up through frankness and co-operation. Pointing out the effect on international relations of newspaper agitation who are visiting this country at a dinner in their honor tonight declared that misunderstandings between Britain and the United States are due largely to pin pricks in the United States press and should be cleared up through frankness and co-operation.

The Case of Ireland
Lord Northcliffe took up the question of difference of point of view starting with Ireland of which he said "we are offering Ireland very generous terms. I believe they are well understood by the United States and United States sympathizers with Ireland should urge Ireland to agree to them."

"Ireland is asking for the impossible; probably asking for more than she expects to get. If you can imagine the feelings of the people of the United States on hearing that Lord Northcliffe had decided to cut loose completely from the Union you can imagine our views as to granting autonomy to Ireland.

"Many English people who do not weigh sufficiently the Irish situation on the United States strongly resent the United States comment on Ireland. They say the Irish question is an English question. Unfortunately it is also an Anglo-American question."

Plenty for All
Lord Northcliffe said if the Irish differences were removed other difficulties naturally arising between the two countries would be disposed of as in the past. He reiterated the statement that there was famine in Ireland asserting: "There is every kind of plenty."

"There is no trouble between Great Britain and the United States," said Northcliffe in conclusion, "there will be no trouble in my judgment if we can get together. If we can read each others' newspapers a little more and get to realize we are not so dissimilar as we seem to be much will be achieved. Three centuries, three thousand miles and thirty million European and other immigrants have changed the United States people a great deal. But after all, we still are more like each other than any other peoples. We have many of the same faults, many of the same weaknesses, many of the same diseases—including golf."

LeBaron Hector Cuts Foot While Splitting Wood—Boy Gets Glass in Eye.

Special to The Standard.
Gagetown, N. B., May 3.—Two painful accidents occurred here within the week; both of which required skillful surgical treatment, and are now progressing successfully. While LeBaron Hector was cutting firewood in the yard of his home last Wednesday afternoon, a heavy blow of the axe, directed at a tough stick, went directly through the right foot, completely severing three large tendons and fracturing several of the small bones of the foot. As Dr. Jenkins was away at the time, it was necessary to wait until evening for medical attendance. The patient is now doing well.

Eye Badly Injured.
This afternoon, while playing with some of the other boys, Francis Duko was struck in the right eye, and his glasses broken, filling his eye with bits of broken glass. It was a very painful accident, and took some time to remove all the glass, eleven pieces being taken out. Fortunately the sight was not destroyed, but it will take some time for the eye to heal.
