They knew the House had the British possessions in America would unanimously resolved that the evidence

The first paragraph was then read and carried.

Upon reading the second, relating to Royal Commission and Pacific Scandal, Mackenzie rose and announced his intention of moving an amendment. He said that upon the motion he did not depend entirely upon his followers. (Government cheers.) He referred to the events preceding the Union with British Columbia. Steadily from the time of the General Confederation the Government had been gradually losing public confidence. Canada was now bound to keep faith with British Columbia, and the Railway must be built by some means. Mackenzie spent some time in a rambling review of the Government weakness. During elections the Government had appointed the strong-the evidence Tupper said the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the contract to Sir Hugh and the Americans, while every particle of evidence proved the could prove his charges in half a lower who had been gradually losing public confidence. Opposition Cheers.) During the elections; Sir John found that he must resort to stronger means to help him. Mackenzle then quoted from the Fremer's evidence before the Commission, referring to the procuring of funds for election purposes. (Extracts were read amid lond Opposition Cheers.) No min could believe that the transactions be tween the Government and Sir. Hugh thought the Pacific Rallway and as ale. Sir Hugh's evidence showed that sir hugh thought the Pacific Rallway and insinuating that money could secure this support. He (Mackenzle) would prove that Sir Hugh thought the Pacific Rallway and insinuating that money could secure this support. He (Mackenzle) would prove that Sir Hugh was not prepared to advance dollar until he had received a promes of the contract. The facts were established that instead of being a member of the thin sterial party, he was simply an active merchant. EVENING SESSION.

The galleries are packed to near House.

Dr. Tupper reply.

After recess Tupper said he rejoiced that the time had come when he and his colleagues could discuss this question before a free Parliament and people. They had been assailed as no other Government had ever been. He agreed with the honorable member for Lambton that it was a question affecting not only this honorable member for Lambton that it honor of the Dominion. (Cheers.) He believed he could prove that the charges of the Opposition were false and slanderous, and that behind them were influences and fined as the other—$6.

Anna Allen and Samuel McCracken, two inmates of Sheffieldst., were charged with the could prove that the charges of the Opposition were false and slanderous, and that behind them were influences and that behind them were influences and that the charges of the Opposition were false and slanderous, and that behind them were influences and the other—$6. the Opposition were false and slanderous, and that behind them were influences which they themselves would be ashamed to own. The charges had been abandoned. (Cheers.) No one who had heard the charges made by the member of Sheffeld street, a laboring man. He went into McCracken's bar-room, where he and Allen live together. They for some reason that Rourke could or work that the Government had resorted to corrupt measures to retain power, came with a bad grace from honorable members opposite, who could be proved to have resorted to worse deeds than were charged against the Government. The honorable member had asserted that he had a majority in this House, but he would do well not to boast when putting his armor on. (Cheers.) It was true the Opposition had secured a majority in Ontario at the last General Election, and how did they exercise their power? By assailing, when the interests of the Empire were at stake, the Government that was cadeavoring to carry out the policy of the Imperial Government that was cadeavoring to carry out the policy of the Imperial Government that was cadeavoring to carry out the policy of the Imperial Government that he made and allen was assulting. Both speeches were well received.

When the Magistrate appeared this norning there were several prisoners for drunkenness, and besides the court-room was honored by the presence of a large number of women, who were there on various charges, some for using their fists and others their tongues, while others were there to assist and sympathize with their unfortunate sisters. Florence McCarthy was the first name called, an old man who went for protection and was allowed to go. He is a resideut of the Alms House. Hugh Hutchinson was arrested for being drunk in North street and fined $4. Thomas Mullin was given in custody by his son for being drunk and disorderly and annoying the neighbors in Leinster street. His wife is now lying at the point of death, but it made no difference with him. He was fined $6 for his offence.
