Arts Centre Lends Prints To Students

Miss Lucy Jarvis, Director of Art at UNB has announced that students will be able to borrow framed prints to hang in their rooms. The prints include examples from many schools of painting, both classical and modern and will be on loan for periods of approximately two months.

The University Art Centre, where the prints may be obtained, is located up the hill behind Aitken House. It contains a large comfortably furnished room where fine art books, a hi-fi machine and a large collection of records may be enjoyed at leisure. There is also a small stage with a piano, and opportunities for playing chess.

Miss Jarvis recently announced that the hours during which the Art Centre will be open are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday for the current academic year.

The Art Centre is also occasionally open on week-end evenings for special programmes of exhibitions, concerts, drama, poetry reading and other events.

The University Art Centre was started in 1941 through the efforts of Miss Jarvis, the late Pegi Nicole MacLeod and Mrs. N. A. M. MacKenzie, wife of a former president of UNB who is now President of UBC. Appropriately, it was first situated in the historical observation building and until recently, was known as the Observation Art Centre. "Its operation has never been by pre-conceived plan, it has developed in response to the needs of the students and Faculty", Miss Jarvis said. A great impetus in development resulted from the influx of post war students and the quarters and activities have since been continually expanded. In the words of Miss Jarvis, "The recent Canada Council grant indicates an environment has evolved which justifies the appointment of a resident fellow in fine arts".

newspapers — two dailies and one weekly. The Telegraph Journal, a morning publication, is a provincial paper, published in Saint John. The Daily Gleaner, noted for its outspoken editorial page, is the local afternoon paper. The Capital Free Press is published every Thursday.

The New Brunswick hunting season opens October 1 and closes November 30. There is a closed season on moose and caribou. UNB students from outside the province may purchase resident hunting licenses. These are sold at all sporting goods stores in the city.

The local branch of the YM-YWCA offer adult education courses during the winter. This year they are tentatively planning on a "defendo" course, a dramatic workshop, and classes in Bridge, pioneer crafts and Canadian folksongs.

Fredericton Lacks Variety

From Peter Kent

The new student at UNB will find off-campus entertainment in Fredericton lacking in variety. Admittedly, there is often enough for the student to do, but he has little choice of where to do it.

There is a noticeable lack of "dining and dancing" in the city. One may eat and one may dance, but never the twain shall meet.

The most popular eateries for college students fall into four categories.

First, there are the restaurants where the students go for light snacks after the show. The most popular of these restaurants are the Paradise on Queen St., the Imperial Restaurant on Carleton St., and the Sun Grill on Regent St.

Secondly, for a lunch counter with longer hours, many students frequent the Club 252 on the corner of Regent and Charlotte Sts., which remains open until 3:00 a.m.

Thirdly, there is the Flame

Restaurant, 7 miles from the centre of the city on the Saint John highway. This is the closest one can get to dining and dancing in Fredericton, although the dancing must be done to recorded music. The Flame, open until 3:00 a.m., provides rustic atmosphere for a meal after a big dance.

For a different type of atmosphere, there is the Kent Inn on Waterloo Row. During the winter students rent the Kent Inn for private parties.

Regular dances in the city are held at the IOOF Hall situated at the corner of Brunswick and Carleton Streets, on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Dances are also held at Teachers' College, Castle Hall and Fredericton High School.

The consumption of liquor in Fredericton, as in the rest of the province, is governed by the Intoxicating Liquor Act. According to this law, the distribution of liquor is controlled by the provincial government, which operates three outlets in Fredericton. One liquor store is situated on Queen St. opposite the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel. There is another on the corner of Queen and Westmorland Sts., and adjacent to it is a beer store. The store hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on weekdays, and from 9:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on Saturdays. No permit is required to purchase liquor in the stores.

Liquor may not be sold to anyone under 21.

There is one radio station, CFNB, which broadcasts from Fredericton. It is affiliated with the CBC Trans-Canada Network. You can pick up CHSJ-TV from Saint John, Channel 4.

There are two motion picture houses in the capital city. The Gaiety Theatre is located on Queen St. and generally runs fairly current movies of a better quality. The Capitol, at the corner of King and Carleton Sts., usually runs western and horror films, often on double bills. Both theatres run one matinee and two evening shows. There are no movies on Sundays.
