Your Character and ability has brought you, and on the work you have been able to do, not only for the people of Canada, and the writing men in particular, but also for the lesson you are teaching other Governments in this relation.

When Mr. Corcoran asked the man at Fernie how you succeeded, I think I can not answer him more deeply and truly, for I remembered that when you were imbued with a strong love for humanity, a self-sacrificing interest in the helpless & needy and an outspoken hatred of oppression.
This with the British spirit of
