

the two women

2/.

Next I heard a voice "Joan" then the word "father"; in answer Joan said he was very well, all were very well, everything well mother very well, he said he came often to see Joan. I came often, every day. Joan asked if he came in the evening - he said yes, and spoke of how glad he was to see her. Then he spoke to her and how one Joan he knew and something about my being very generous and went on to speak of what I had done for Joan - I said she had done more for me, he repeated about my business and said there was so little he could do "all the ^{way} ~~way~~ ^{do in 15, 20, 30} ~~way~~ ^{years} Joan" - then he said "God bless you all"

Next came Dr Jarvis called himself Jarvis and said he was a son of Mrs Jarvis, the one who was called "Squire Jarvis" - he said he had been in London he had come to speak about the London people. Joan he recalled death names. He spoke of Joan's father and mother. My father was the "Squire" Joan knew. Joan began to talk about old friends - Allan Cole - he said he was very well, - that all the boys who had been killed in the war were very happy & well, there was a special sphere where they got to know each other, before joining one to other - by the sphere. Then they were a wonder but he spoke of the war being a terrible one, Joan mentioned another name or two he said he might arrange to have them come.

Then there was some one else and had a finger off.

Shortly after mother came