

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 29a

and asks that Neilson undertake the task, it being understood that Neilson is not pledged to support the claim.

D. B. Viger to Neilson. (In French.) Account of interview with Lord Goderich. Is pleased with His Lordship's frankness, but has gathered nothing definite as to his views respecting Mr. Stuart. Is much encouraged by expressions of Lord Goderich, on grievances. Arbitration of Boundary dispute. Province will probably have control over granting of lands. Goderich vexed at not knowing Legislature was meeting at once. Province must not expect too much at once. They discussed court of impeachments and emigration. Assembly should conduct itself with prudence, to make Viger's visit of utility. He fears intrigues, but much admires Lord Goderich. Garneau, who is there, living very quietly. He is sending a copy of a letter he is writing to Lord Goderich of which Neilson may make what use he pleases.

G. Stobbs to Neilson. Sends a prospectus of a newspaper he is to issue beginning with the New Year, and asks Neilson's assistance in several ways.

Petition of the Lorette Indians, respecting the Seigniori of Sillery.

H. C. Thomson to Neilson. Mr. McFarlane and himself are about to publish a revised edition of the Statutes of Upper Canada, and asking for the patronage of the Legislature of Lower Canada.

A. Brown and two others to R. Taylor and S. Baker. Suggesting certain changes in the Road Act, which is now engaging the attention of the Legislature.

J. Lancaster to L. J. Papineau. Sending some specimens of the handwriting of his pupils, to show the progress made at his school; and telling of other evidence of the good work done there.

D. B. Viger to Lord Goderich. (In French.) Sending sheets of the translation of his memoir respecting Mr. Stuart. Work of translation proceeds diligently. Hopes to finish first part within time fixed.

D. B. Viger to Neilson. (In French.) As Lord Goderich is frequently out of town, it is sometimes difficult to see him. Will deliver observations to Stuart's reply to first and third reports of the Assembly. Neilson may make what use he pleases of this letter. Viger expects the old school politicians are intriguing against Lord Aylmer. Of the small number who have seen the charges against Stuart, there is no one who does not consider them very grave, and fully proven. Stuart's reply has no support in constitutional doctrine. He wonders if these papers have been laid before the Assembly as he desired.

Lord Aylmer to Neilson. Requesting him to call upon His Lordship.

D. B. Viger to Neilson. (In French.) Sends copy of a letter he has just received from Lord Howick. Viger cannot believe that the Ministers will spoil the good impression their despatches are making in Canada by restoring Mr. Stuart. Lord Goderich is in the country.

Charles Caron to Neilson. (In French.) Informing him of death of Michel Caron, J.P., Militia Bill and other matters.

H. Craig to J. Neilson J.P. Circular respecting the fines collected by him as Justice of the Peace.
