Old Roman Boat.—The remains of the old Roman boat found embedded in the Thames mud during the sinking of the foundations of the New London County hall, at Westminster Bridge, has been transferred to the new London Museum at South Kensington. The ancient timbers have been placed in a deal framework built on the lines of the original boat, which measured about 50 feet by 20 feet. The remains include the bottom of the boat, one of the sides, the stump of the mast, some large nails, and pegs of wood used to bind

A Physician's Testimony for Labatt's Ale

"We find that the ale uniformly and well agreed with the patients, that it stimulated the appetite, and thereby increased nutrition. The taste, likewise, is always highly spoken of. In nervous women, we found that a glass at bedtime acted as a very effective and harmless hypnotic."—SUPERINTENDENT OF LARGE U. S. HOSPITAL.

the timbers together. A coin which was found in the boat points to its date being probably about 293-296 A.D. Researches made by Sir Laurence Gomme, clerk to the London County Council, have led to the opinion that the old boat is probably a relic of the first fleet formed to protect the shores of Britain.

Quetta, in Baluchistan, on the northwest frontier of India, is a rather strange spot in which to find Chinese Christians. The Bishop of Lahore, for the first time in his experience, recently confirmed four Chinamen there, and in a letter to the Church Missionary Gleaner for September he says: "There is quite a considerable colony of Christian Chinamen at Quetta now, their Christianity being, as far as one can judge, of a very practical and real type." These Chinese Christians are descendants of Mr. Ook F., who was born in India, his father having emigrated thither before the Mutiny to instruct planters in the art of managing tea-gardens.

been appointed by the Crown to the Bishopric of Birmingham in succession to the Right Rev. Dr. Gore, who has been translated to Oxford. Dr. Russell Wakefield is 56 years of age. He was educated at Tonbridge and afterwards at the Universities of Paris and Bonn. He is thus able to speak both French and German with unusual proficiency. Before Dr. Wakefield took Holy Orders he studied for some time at Cuddesdon College. He was ordained in 1877, and served his first curacy at the well-known church of St. Peter's, Vauxhall, one of the pioneer churches of the Oxford Movement in South London. He was curate-in-charge of All Saints', Swanscombe, Kent, from 1881 to 1883, then vicar of St. Michael and All Angels, Lower Sydenham. From Sydenham he went to St. Paul's, Sandgate, and thence to St. Mary's, Bryanston-square, being made a prebendary of St. Paul's in 1908. A year later Mr. Asquith conferred upon him the Deanery of Norwich.
