These questions touch the point in this strike upon which the leaders base their hope of success; that is the working of the whole as a unit. In former strikes they have found that permitting the mines of one district to resum operations as soon as the local operators are certed many requests asking him if the local operators accede to the terms of the strikers what they shall do. mitting the mines of one district to resume operations as soon as the local operators agree to pay the scale helped to supply the coal demand and injured the chances of their brother miners in other districts to win their fight. The result of this strike probably depends upon the managers of it to enforce this order and prevent the miners going to work where there is dispute as to wages. Mr. McBride gave out that following telegram from the president of the American Federation of Labor: New York, April 21.—Executive Council, American Federation of Labor in sension, sends fraternal greetings and express sincere/sympathy with the movement to insurel fair conditions and some degree of justice for miners.
