I., to join the faculty of the Rhode Island College of Education, having been appointed to a full professorship in the department of Romance Languages. She was offered a similar position at the University of Wisconsin, but decided in favor of the eastern institution. The Rhode Island College of Education is a very popular institution of learning, its record showing that it has been able to admit only about half the applicants for enrollment. Last year over two thousand students were in attendance. Our clever young townswoman has the congratulations of a host of home friends on this promotion which is but another forward step in what has already been a most successful career.

Rev. William A. Newcombe, formerly of Thomaston Me., was for years a regular summer visitor in Wolfville. A native of this town, his parents once resided in the dwelling now occupied by Mr. J. F. Mr. Newcombe, who now reside in Massachusetts, were in Wolfville last week on a motor trip through Nova Scotia, stopping here to look up some of the relatives and former friends of their late father. One had once before, many years ago, paid a visit to Wolfville while the other was here for the first time. They called upon THE ACADIAN, the former editor having been a friend of their father, and also upon Mr. H. Y. Bishop, who is a distant relative. Lack of time prevented them from looking up others whom they should have liked to have seen, but they evidently enjoyed their stay and were interested in what they saw.
