

Peer and Vicar do Not Agree.

LONDON.—It would appear to be the fate of Boy Scouts the world over to have to listen to good advice from their elders. In England the boys take it good humoredly and patiently as all in the day's work. But recently a group of Scouts must have been perplexed, as well as amused, when the good advice from two speakers did not in the least agree. They had come to Bedford to attend church. The Vicar, the Rev. A. O. Cheney, addressed them. He warned them against smoking as "a dirty and disgusting habit." He told them to keep the Sabbath day holy and not to go about "making a noise and disturbing the villagers." (The boys had marched to church headed by bugles and drums.) Nor, he said, should anything be done on Sunday which entailed extra work for anyone. (The villagers had agreed to entertain the visiting scouts to tea.) The Vicar said he never entertained anyone on Sundays; people should start at home on Sunday and help along the activities of the Church.

LORD AMPHILL'S ADVICE.
After the service Lord Amphil got his turn at the boys. He said that smoking had been helpful to some of the greatest men in the world. One of the wisest philosophers used to smoke like a chimney. But, of course, it wouldn't be right for small boys to smoke. He always entertained his friends on Sunday, he said. He honored God by going to church Sunday morning, but afterward he sometimes did a bit of carpentry. The idea of Sunday, he told the boys, was that it should be a day of rest which meant abstention from ordinary work. Annual labor on Sundays rested him rather more than anything else because, during the week, he had to attend a good many meetings in hot stuffy rooms. So long as they did not disturb the peace of their villages, they need have no compunctions in turning out on Sunday to pay a friendly compliment to a new troop. One of the grownups suggested that the Peer and the Parson should hold a public discussion on the subject, the proceeds to be divided equally between the Church and the Scouts.

School Boys a Menace to Egyptian Politics.

CAIRO, Egypt.—The inauguration of a strict policy by the Egyptian government to deal with the fanatical enthusiasm of the school boy politicians is regarded by all the native papers as a necessity of the hour, if the Egyptian political and educational structures are to be saved from disruption. The students in the universities and high schools of the country who came forward last year and joined in street demonstrations to help win political freedom for Egypt, have now developed a new movement which seems to be a general revolt against all existing customs that conflict with their own personal aggrandisement. The students, convinced of their power, have turned their energies to eliminating examinations. Their political slogan a year ago was: "We do not want the English." To-day they are shouting: "We want no more examinations." And they are keen enough to plan a campaign which will use politics as a lever to make easier their classroom work. The elections for members of the new Parliament are set for October. The students aim to see that only candidates who heed their demands are returned to both houses. Their election cries are now being tried out in this wise: "Vote for Mahmood Bey and no examinations." Following of Zashouli Pasha are taking advantage of this attitude of boyishness and are showering upon them all kinds of promises in return for votes at the coming elections.

Rifle Shooting Contest

STIMULATE ACTUAL WARFARE.

ALDERSHOT.—The complaint in many of rifle shooting contests, not without reason, that they afford little practice in marksmanship under conditions that approximate those of actual warfare, and that proficiency in the kind of shooting that prizes is not the sort of shooting that is most needed for war battles. To meet this criticism the Company Cup competition was devised. The first underlying the competition is that an outpost of nine men, under a non-commissioned officer, is suddenly attacked by an equal number of hostile forces represented by nine to ten discs, which appear over the top of a trench 200 yards away. The outpost opens fire and when a disc is hit it disappears. But more of the enemy is constantly arriving, three more discs appearing every ten seconds during the minute the contest is being waged. When the number of discs in view exceeds that of the outpost, the whole team is put out of action. The team with the fewer number of discs exposed at the end of the minute wins. It is a most interesting method of competition, and it has attracted a large number of entries.
